

THE MILKMAN

We've all heard of milkmen adding water to milk. Madho was one such man.

His customers knew but were helpless as there was no other milkman in the locality

The milk is so watery

One day as Madho was about to start on his rounds in the morning, there was a flash of light and a godly being stood before him.

Oh! Who is this effulgent personality

I am your Lord

A cartoon illustration of a woman with a surprised expression, wearing a golden crown and jewelry, with a speech bubble asking a question. The woman has a bindi on her forehead and is wearing a purple shawl over a white top. She is adorned with a golden necklace and two garlands of flowers (yellow and red). The background shows stylized trees and foliage.

Madho, why do you add water to milk everyday?

Madho stammered

I...I....

Speak up

Madho said honestly...

I...I..do it to increase the quantity of milk so that I can make more money Lord

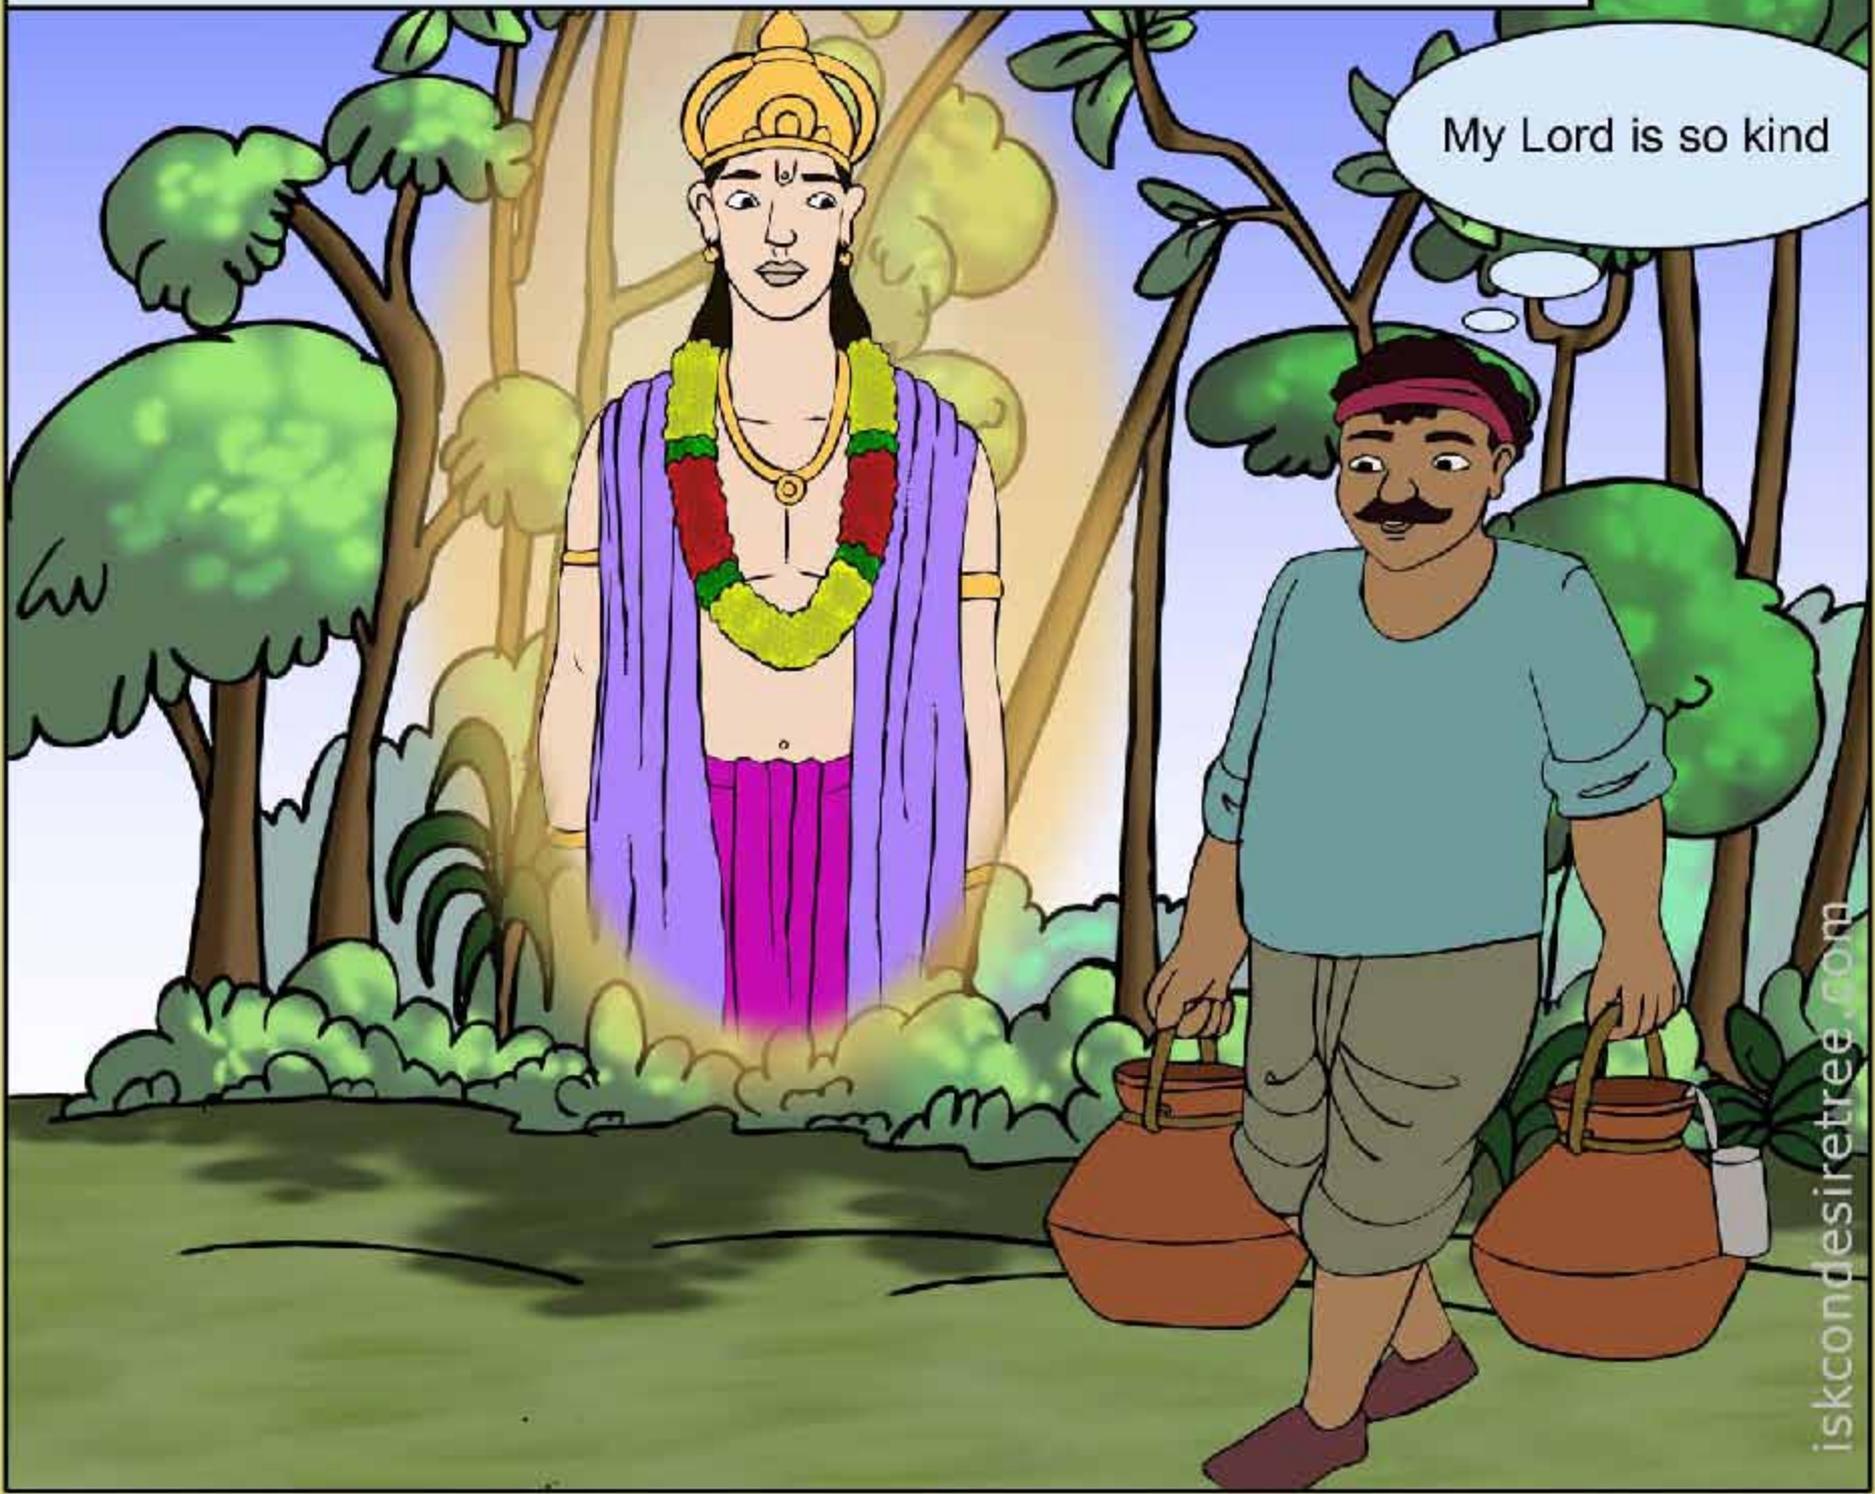

The god waved his hand and a can of milk identical to the one Madho was carrying appeared before him

Behold. I have given you another can of milk. You now have double the quantity of milk you got from your cows, this morning

Madho thanked the god profusely and picking up the can, started walking

My Lord is so kind

He took a few steps and stopped

I hope he changes
his habit

Yes? Is there anything more you want?

I was wondering,
you could...

Yes! You want another can of milk?

No...No! I'm not that greedy...

... just give me another can of water.

MORAL :

Greed limits your habits and becomes your nature