*Urindavana awakes. The flowers, the birds and trees
Wait for Krsna to bless them with His smile.*

*"Open your eyes!" sings Mother Yasoda, softly in His ear.
"Are you hungry? Do you want to play? It is time to rise."*

*Not far away, King Kamsa plots and schemes,
"Oh Raksasi, kill all the children that you see!"*

Putana, smiling, became a gopi. "Do not fear, Feeding Krsna poison, I will make Him die."

*Seeing baby Kṛṣṇa, she said, "Oh my, my!
"How sweet! Dear baby, won't you play with me?"*

"Are you hungry, Kṛṣṇa? Please taste this nectar, Sweeter than honey, thicker than cream."

*But He sucked up the poison and hervery life air.
Screaming a death cry, she crashed to the ground.*
