

MOTTOS IN THE SCHOOL

I am only me, but I'm still someone.

I cannot do everything, but I can do something.

Just because I cannot do everything does not give me the right to do nothing.

It is my duty to do what I can and I must never say I can't until I try, and if at first I don't succeed I must try again.

Remember when you talk you only repeat what you already know; but if you listen you may learn something.

Let us pray not for lighter burdens, but for stronger backs.

The longer you put off doing a job, the harder it becomes.

Do not rush over your work in school or at home.

Naturally, you will always try to do your best, but do not feel sad or discourahged if you cannot make a perfect score.

Even though our minds may work slower than some children's, let us bear in mind that it is only a blessing that they work at all.

Start each day with a fresh beginning; as if this whole world was made anew.

School is a good place to get along with other people; this will help you when you grow up.

We are known by our actual deeds and not by what we boast that we can do.

Be contented, and do not worry or try to catch up with the world's uneasiness and speed.

Never, never be afraid to do what is right, even if all the others are doing what is wrong.

Do not count the mistakes of your parents or teacher; rather, help them along in life's strife, and your own will become sweeter.

People who are always in a hurry, seemingly, get vderly little satisfaction out of life.

A person who lives only for himself never knpows the real joy of life.

You can be pleasant without talking a lot. Think twice before you speak once.

Singing is a pleasant pastime, good exercise for the lungs and a nice way of giving PRAISE to God.
