Once a hunter spread his net for little birds in the jungle

There were two little birds in the nest on a tree close to the hunter's net. Their parents had gone in search of food and had instructed them not to leave the nest.

Hey ! Look down there are lots of grains lying just below. Why wait hungry till our parents come back? Let us pick it up & enjoy!

The birds while trying to eat the grains, got trapped in the hunter's net.

A cartoon illustration of two yellow chicks trapped in a wire mesh fence. The chicks are looking distressed, with wide eyes and sweat drops. The background shows green grass and a tree trunk. The text "Mamma help!" is written in white above the chick on the right, and "Pappa help!" is written in white below the chick on the left. The website address "iskcondesiretree.com" is at the bottom left.

Mamma help!

Pappa help!

The parents returned back to their nest & discovered that their children were missing.

I had told them not to leave the nest.

I hope they are not in danger

Soon they discovered that their children were trapped in the hunter's net.

Oh My child ! How did you get trapped in the net ?
Let me go & save my child

Immediately the mother jumped to save her child.

Wait wait don't jump!
Don't be foolish !

In trying to save the children, the mother also got trapped in the hunter's net

Help! Help!

Oh! they all have got foolishly trapped in the hunter's net. If I jump I will also be trapped & be killed better let me fly away from here.

MORAL:

Save yourself from maya's net by becoming Krishna Conscious before it captures you in the form of death.

"This is intelligence. You cannot give protection to your family or to your society. That is not possible. They must die! They all will be captured by the network of maya you can't save them. If you want to save them, then make them Krishna Conscious. That is the only remedy." -Srla Prabhupada
