Dedicated to Dr. Brenda Davies
whose book,
"The 7 Healing Chakras" made me aware
where my roots were planted,
and
to Ratna
for the loving gift of that book.

The Earth is my mother because my body is created from hers.

I was born on her planet.

She loves and cares for me.

When I am young I play with her soil. When I get older she provides the things for me to build with.

The bricks of my house are made from Earth.

She grows trees that protect me from the sun and rain. They also give me fruits and nuts to eat.

Her rivers and lakes give me water to drink and wash with.

Plants grow in her soil. Some are my food, and some are used for medicine to help me get well when I am sick.

The Earth provides herbs and spices, and also salt. These give nice tastes to my food.

The sweetest things I like to eat are made from her plants.

Gas that is used for cooking food comes from inside the Earth.

She grows beautiful flowers that make me happy when I see their colors and smell their fragrance.

I decorate myself with ornaments made from jewels, gold, and silver. These come from within the Earth.

The Earth gives me a choice of places to live. She lets me walk and run on her.

Wherever I go she is always with me. She supports me.

Her energy makes me strong. I can feel it enter my feet.

I love my mother, the Earth, and want to take care of her.

Can you tell me ways to take care of her? Please list them below.

“Yes, to make a Krishna conscious colouring book for children is a very good idea for serving and for spreading Krishna consciousness to the young children. Please do it.”

-Letter from Srila Prabhupada, 28 May, 1968
