

SCISSOR PHILOSOPHY

Once two men were arguing about which cutting instruments should be used, a knife or scissor.

A cartoon illustration of a young man with brown hair, wearing blue-rimmed glasses and a pink shirt. He is shown from the chest up, looking slightly to the left with a wide, open-mouthed expression, as if shouting or reacting in surprise. A yellow speech bubble is positioned to his left, containing the text "Knife!". The background is a light blue sky with faint horizontal lines.

Knife!

Scissors!

A cartoon illustration of a young girl with large, spiky brown hair, wearing blue-rimmed glasses and a pink shirt. She has a wide, open-mouthed expression, appearing to shout or yell. A yellow speech bubble is positioned to her left, containing the text 'No, knife!'. The background is a light blue sky with faint horizontal lines, suggesting an outdoor setting. The entire image is framed by a light green border.

No, knife!

No, scissor !

If you don't agree,
I will throw you in the river.

No. I will never change my mind. It's scissor!

No, its knife!

So the knife advocate threw the other man into the swift river ...

He swam for a while but became exhausted and began to sink...

No, its scissor!

He was so stubborn about holding his point that even after sinking under the water to his death...

He held up his arm and crossed his fingers back and forth like a pair of scissors cutting.

MORAL :

Stubborn people such as scientists or impersonalists will never accept defeat. Even though completely smashed, they still maintain that they are right.
