

Snake and The Wood Cutter

INSTRUCTIVE STORIES BY SRILA PRABHUPADA

Somebody killed a snake, but he did not cut or burn the body, he simply bated it

But snakes, if they are not completely destroyed, can revive themselves by air. So again this snake came back to life

One day a wood cutter saw that snake looking badly beaten

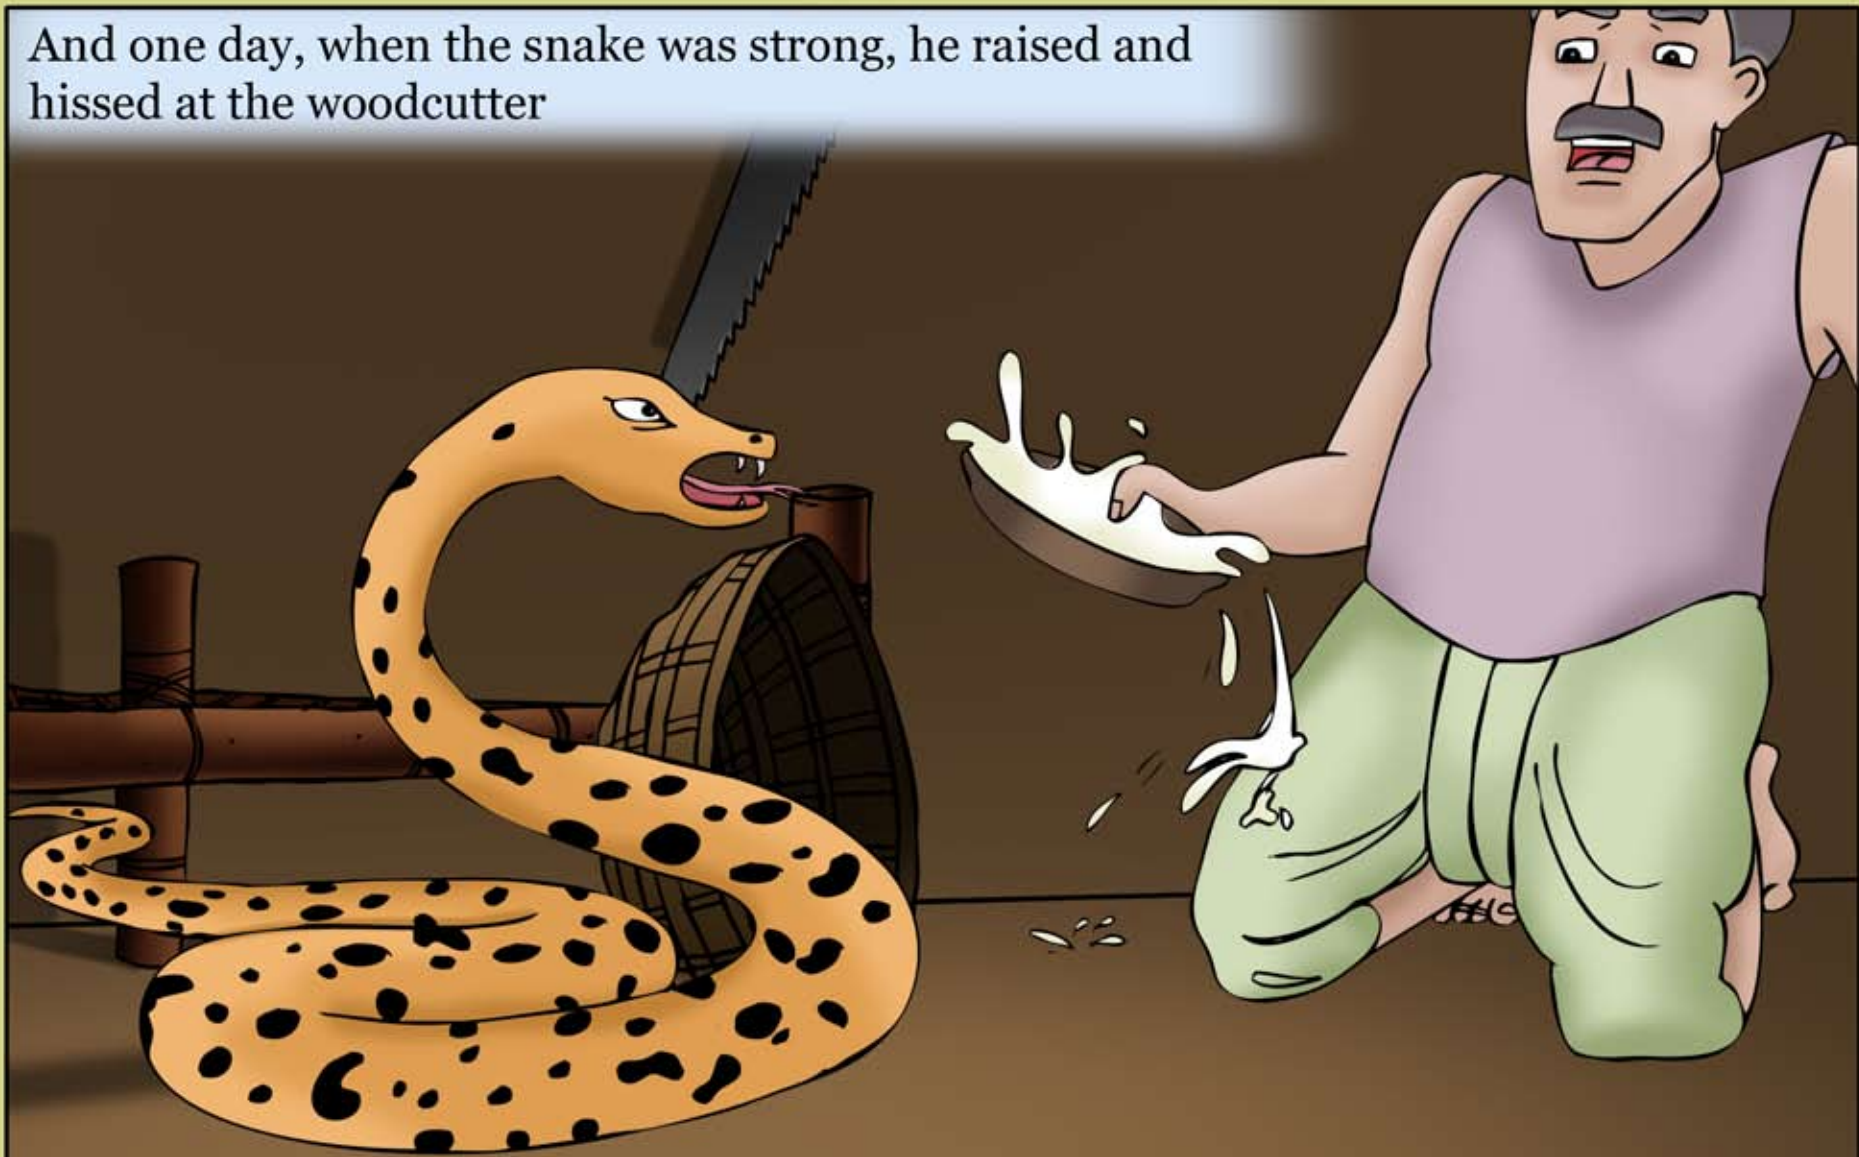

He showed sympathy.

He took the snake home and gave him some milk

And one day, when the snake was strong, he raised and hissed at the woodcutter

Oh, I gave you milk and brought you back to life and now you are trying to attack me?

So he cut him into pieces
