Once there was a spoiled child who would always make various demands to his parents.

Father, I need the moon and the stars down !

*It is beyond
one's ability
to even touch
that, what to talk about bringing them
down*

Father I said I want it! Go get them down!

The child became very angry..

You are simply cheating me!

Let us take him to the roof of a big skyscraper so that he will understand that the stars and moon are beyond our reach

Finding even then that the moon and the stars were still beyond reach, the boy became furious with the sky

Damn sky! Why do you hold the moon and the stars so high? Look I will make you feel the evil consequences

As he was cursing thus the idiot boy started spitting up at the sky in great disgust, but obviously every drop of his spit fell back on his own face.

PURPORT

Those who prefer to blaspheme the highest order of the spiritual master and the Vaisnavas, are simply attracting utter disgrace upon themselves. As such, it is advised that all insignificant living entities should better try to take shelter of the spiritual master and the Vaishnavas in order to be assured of their own well being.
