The publication of this book is made possible by the devotees of VRINDA, South America, under the guidance of HH Paramadvaiti Swami Maharaja. It is the expressed wish of Maharaja that this book, which was originally illustrated and published in Spanish be made available to English speaking audience. Thus we are greatly thankful to Paramadvaiti Swami for this publication.

We are also thankful to Haribuddhi Dasa for his help in rendering some Spanish texts into English.

Do You Know Who the Real Heroes Are?

Are they Batman, Superman, the X-men, or Disney stars? Do they give us love, hope and affection? Can they relieve our sufferings? No, they can't. They are nothing but commercially marketed characters for this dark age of Kali.

Then, who are the real heroes?

The real heroes are our spiritual masters. Just as Hanuman crossed the ocean to accomplish the mission of his Lord, Sri Rama, in the same way Srila Prabhupada and his genuine representatives, have distributed divine love to all corners of the world. Simply by his pure desire to spread the message of Mahaprabhu, he manifested highest example of compassion. Srila Prabhupada performed the impossible task of giving the world, the love of Lord Krishna and His most intimate friends.

Without discrimination, Srila Prabhupada has bestowed love, affection and hope upon all souls; he taught us that we are not this body. He taught us to rise above sufferings, to live simply and think highly. He ordered us to follow his example and spread the message of Lord Caitanya Mahaprabhu to every town and village in the world.

Offering him our humble obeisances, we pray that he protects us from the strong network of illusory energy, so that we may continue to serve his mission of delivering the Holy Name of the Lord to each and every heart throughout the world.

Do You Know Who the Real Heroes Are?

An old woman, perhaps the best of them, said to the girl as she sat and listened
Can they really be heroes of the past?
They are called the common people heroes of the old days.

That was the old woman's story.

The old woman was an old woman, but as history passed the years in her life she knew of the past, of the days when the heroes of the past were heroes and the common people were the heroes of the present. She had seen the old days and she had seen the new days and she had seen the old heroes and the new heroes.

Without doubt, the heroes of the past were heroes of the past and the heroes of the present are the heroes of the present. The old heroes are the heroes of the past and the new heroes are the heroes of the present. The old heroes are the heroes of the past and the new heroes are the heroes of the present.

Thinking of our heroes of the past, we find that they were heroes of the past and they were heroes of the present. The old heroes are the heroes of the past and the new
heroes are the heroes of the present.

S. ADVENTURES OF INDIA

Maha Mantra

In this age of Kali, there is no other way, there is no other way, there is no other way to know Krishna but through chanting:

HARE KRISHNA
HARE KRISHNA
KRISHNA KRISHNA
HARE HARE
HARE RAMA
HARE RAMA
RAMA RAMA
HARE HARE

Two Thieves

One day little Nimai was playing by Himself in His parent's courtyard. Two thieves were passing by the house and saw Nimai, His beautiful face decorated with shining jewels.

"Look at this boy's jewels," one thief said to the other.

"Let's go and steal them."

Seeing that the child was alone, the thieves went into the courtyard and carried Nimai away.

“Where are we going?”
Nimai asked.

We’re going to get some sweets,” one of the thieves said, while putting Nimai on his shoulder.

Nimai said.

The thieves ran very fast in the direction of the forest.

Nimai is not a common child. He is truly Krishna, playing as a little child. He knew what the thieves had in mind. The thieves thought that they were moving further away from Nimai’s house. But by His divine power Nimai made the thieves run around in circles and they ended up right in front of His home.

When Nimai went missing all the friends and family members assembled in His house, lamenting:

“Where is Nimai? Who took Him?”

While lamenting in this way, Nimai reappeared with the thieves still carrying Him. The two rascals were so astonished being back in front of Nimai’s house that they put Nimai down and ran away without stealing any jewels.

When Nimal went to school,
the friends and family members assembled in his house, listening

"Where is Nimal?"

While listening

Nimai and the Pots

When Nimai was still a child He went to school everyday. Sachimata, His mother, didn't want her child to go to school.

"Please, don't send Nimai to school," Sachimata begged her husband. "If He goes to school He will learn the Bhagavad-gita and He will leave home like His brother. He won't have any desire to marry, or have a home.

Then He won't stay with us. He'll only dedicate Himself to chanting and dancing all day."

"You're right," Jagannath Misra replied. "Therefore, from today He'll stay home with us and I'll not send Him to study. Then He'll never desire to leave home."

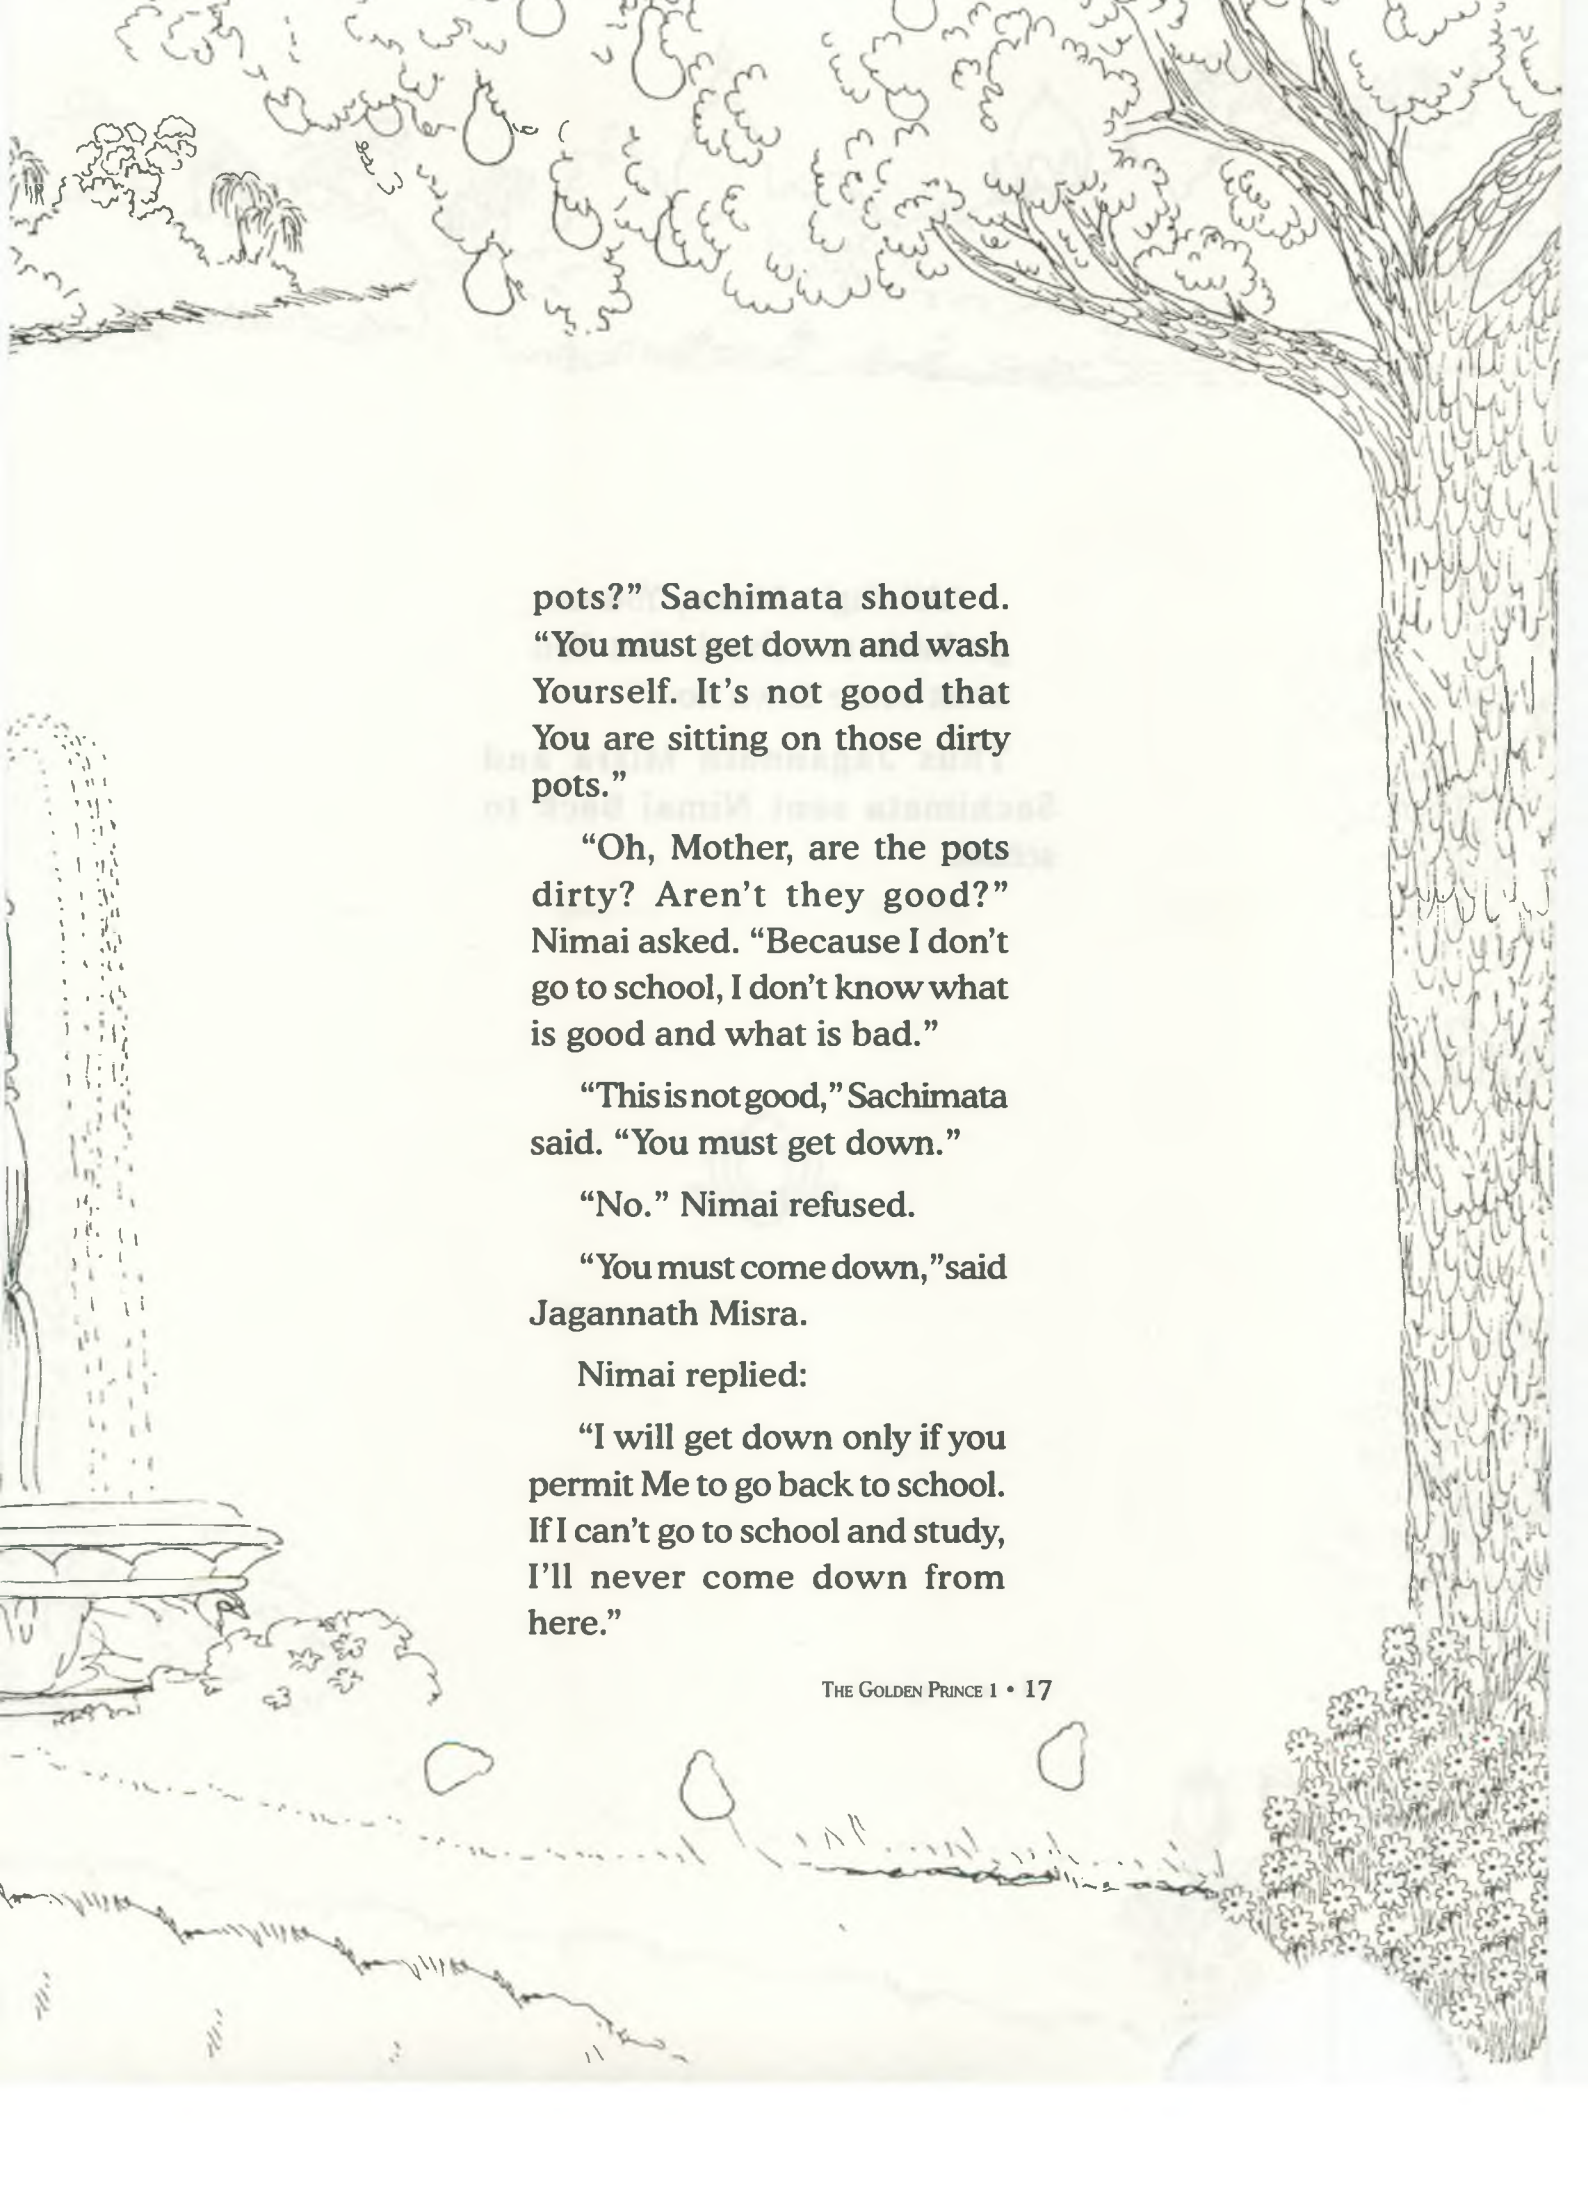

"Yes, My beloved parents, I will fulfill your desires." Nimai said. "I will not go to school."

But Nimai soon tired of the arrangement and began to misbehave.

One day Nimai climbed up on top of a big pile of unwashed pots and sat there refusing to come down.

"Oh no! Oh no! Why are You sitting on those dirty pots?" Sachimata shouted. "You must get down and wash Yourself. It's not good that You are sitting on those dirty pots."

"Oh, Mother, are the pots dirty? Aren't they good?" Nimai asked. "Because I don't go to school, I don't know what is good and what is bad."

"This is not good," Sachimata said. "You must get down."

"No." Nimai refused.

"You must come down," said Jagannath Misra.

Nimai replied:

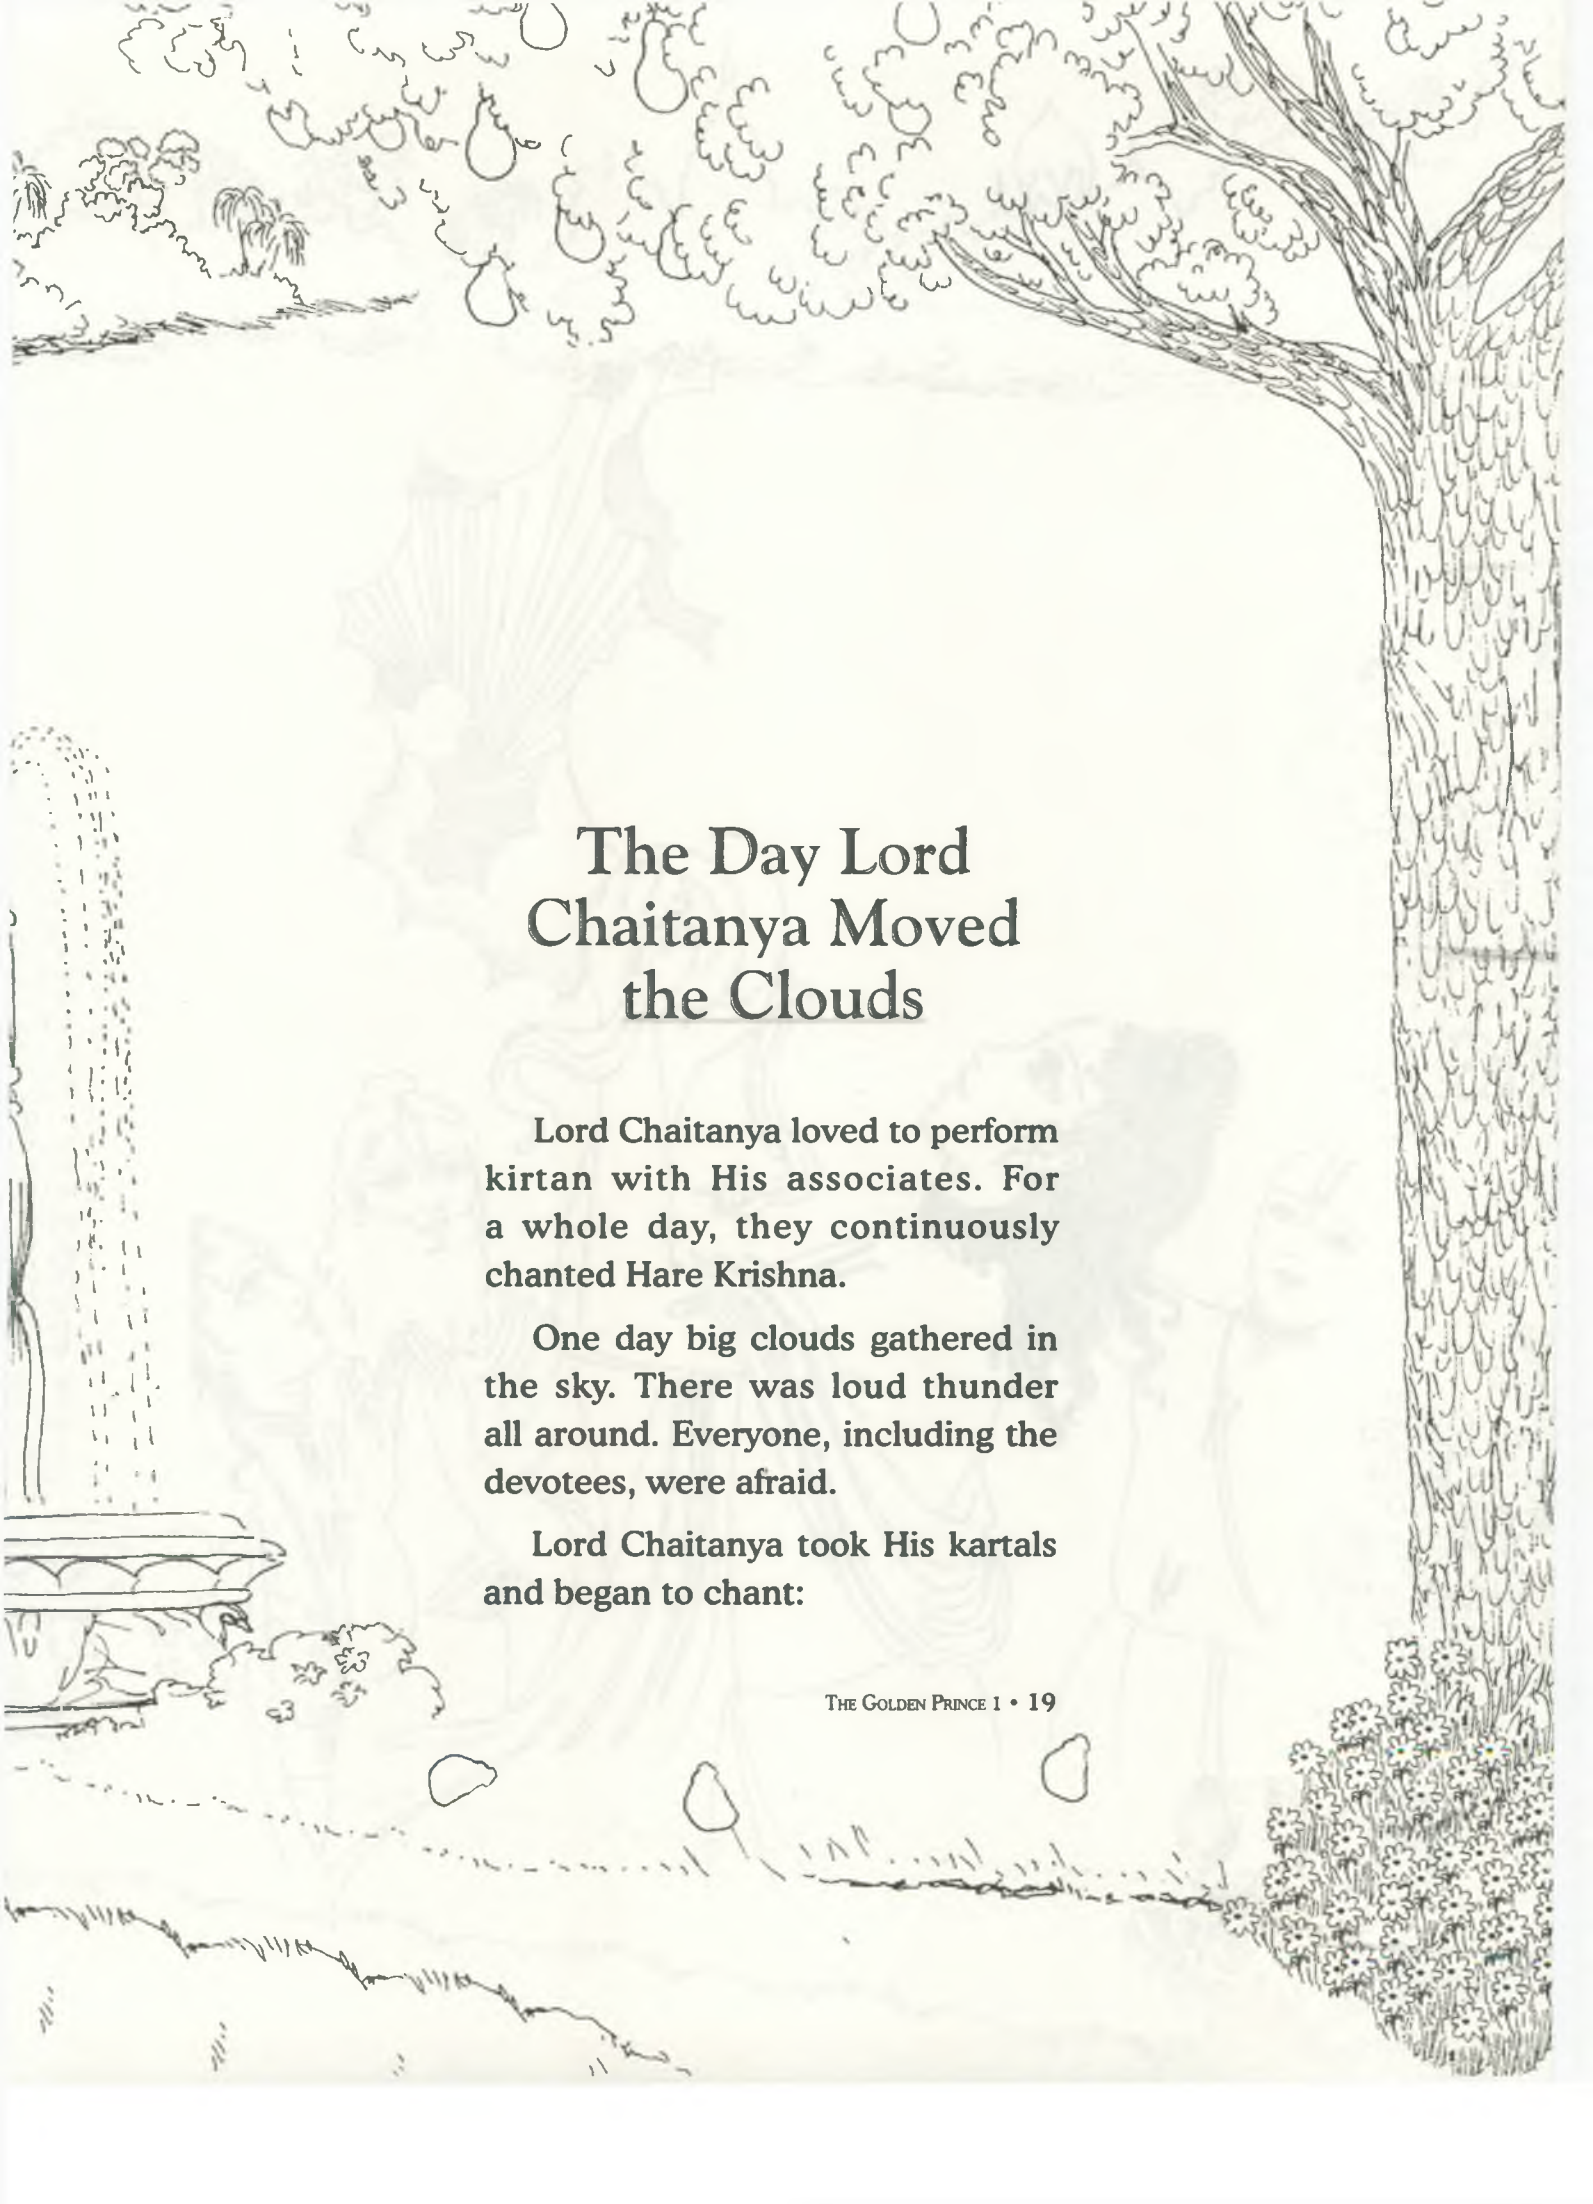

"I will get down only if you permit Me to go back to school. If I can't go to school and study, I'll never come down from here."

“All Right Nimai, You can go back to school. But You must come down now.”

Thus Jagannath Misra and Sachimata sent Nimai back to school.

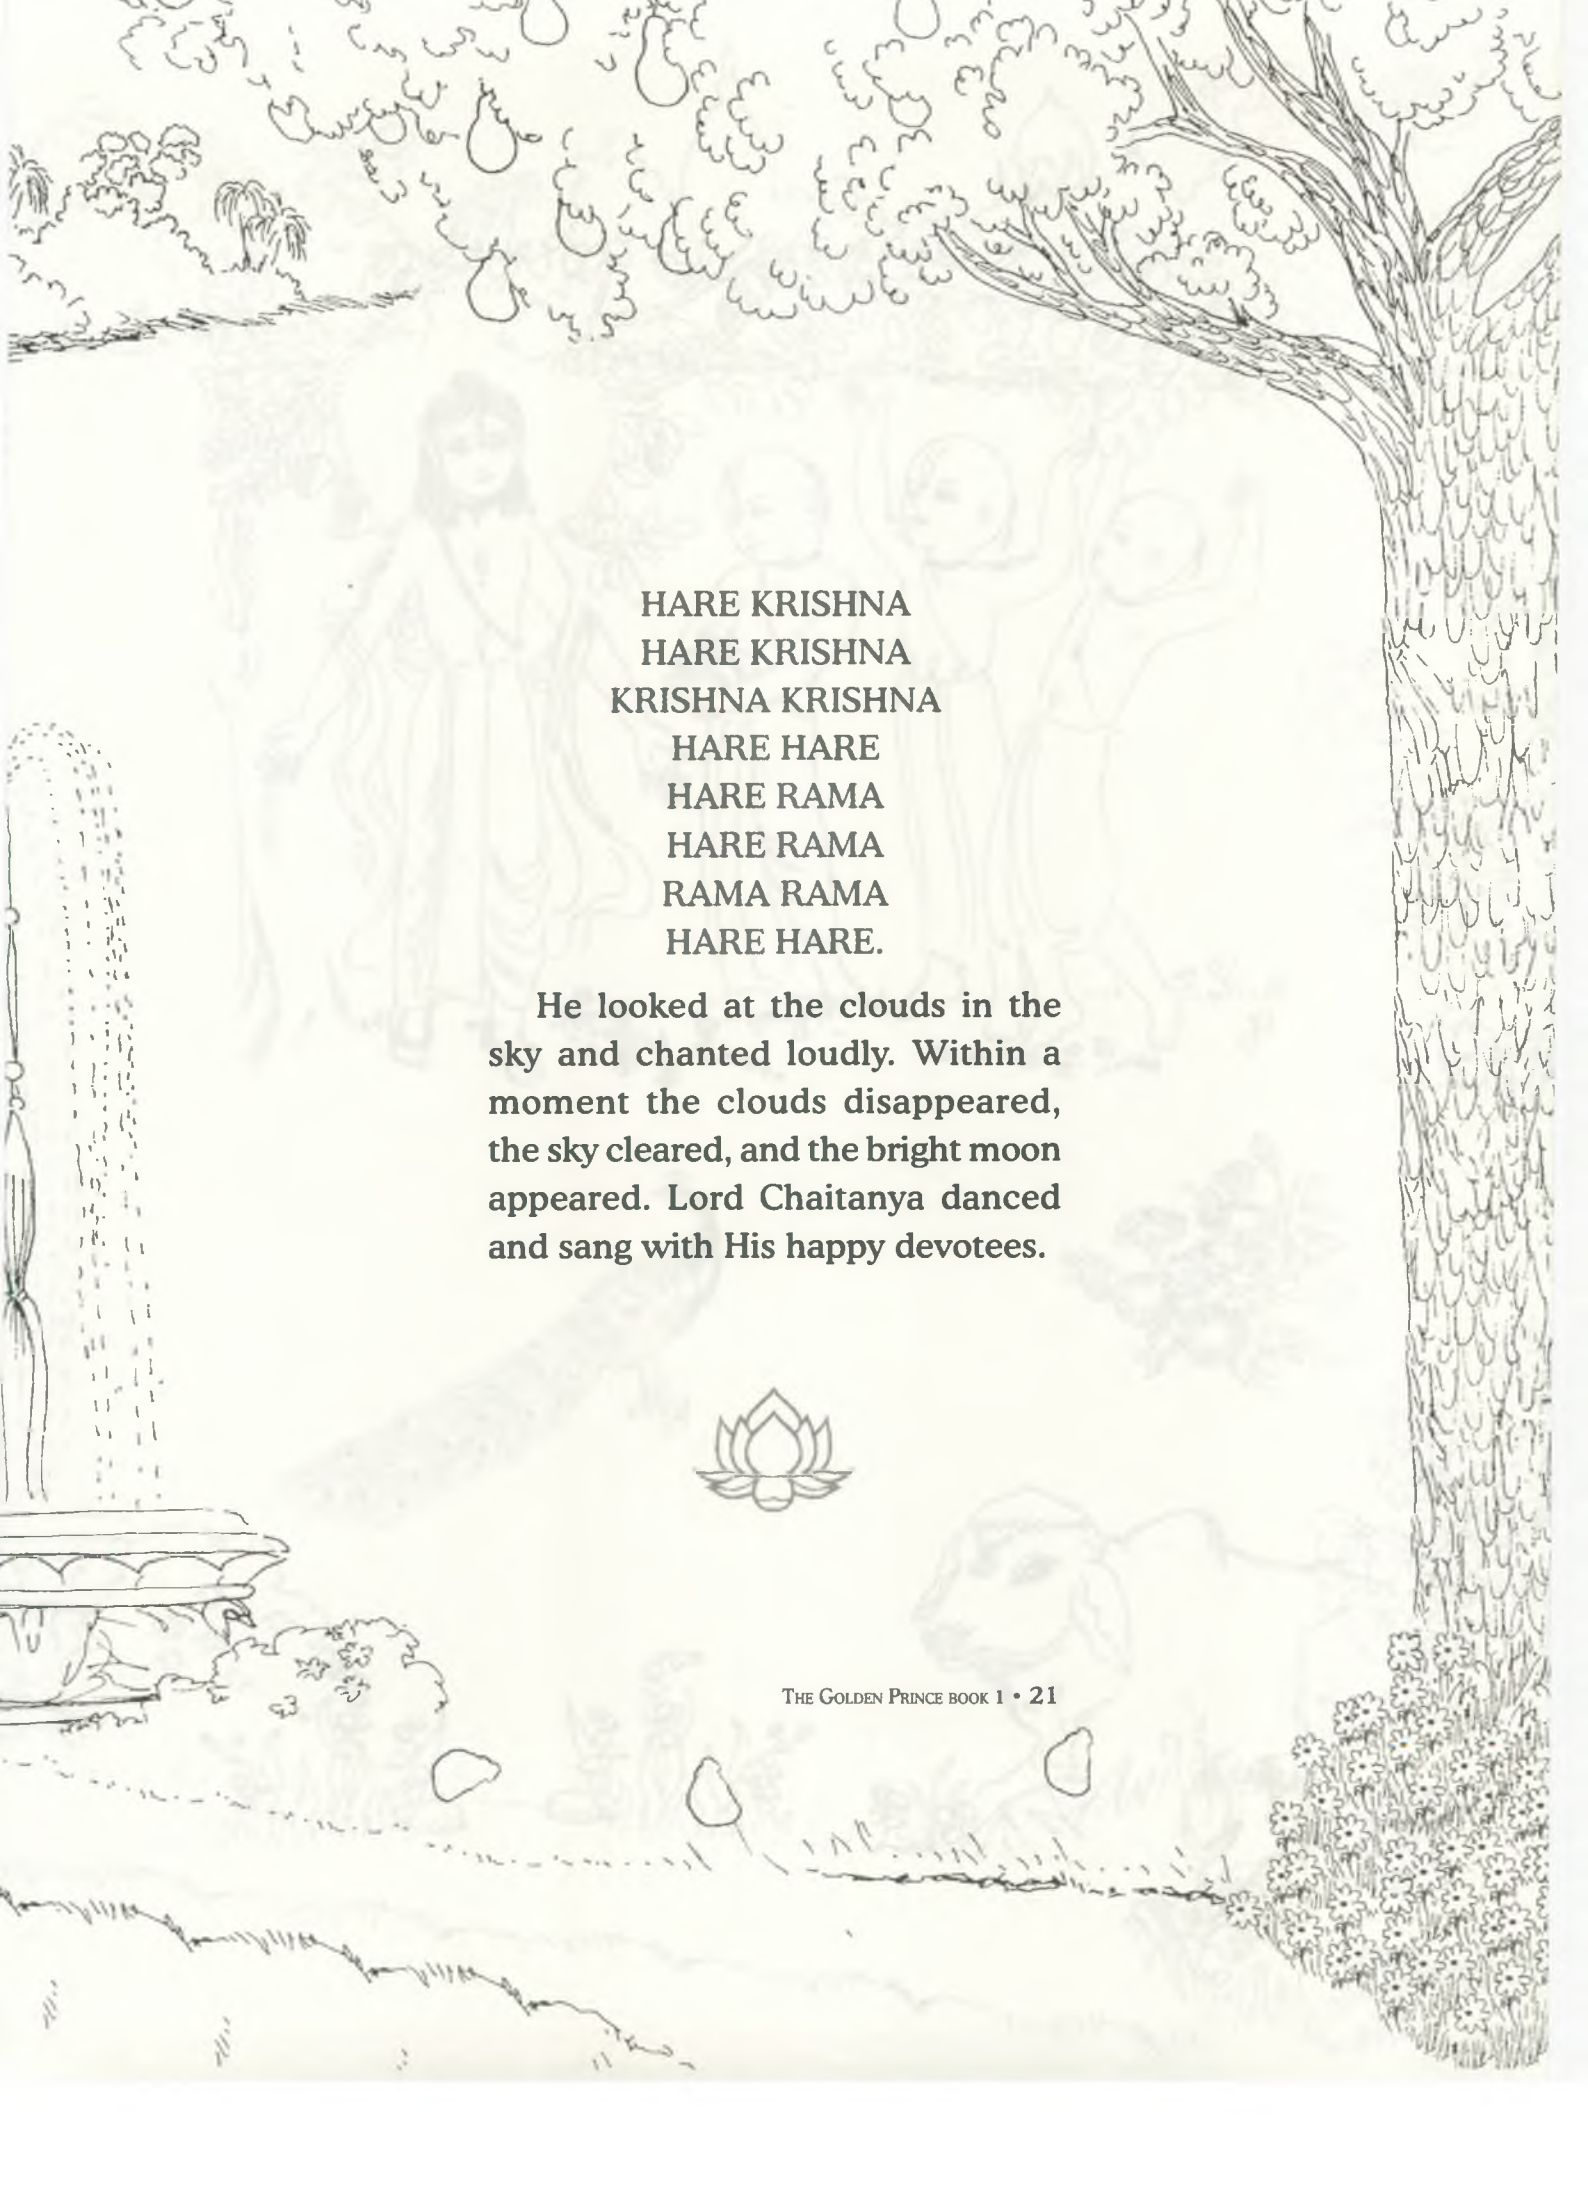

The Day Lord Chaitanya Moved the Clouds

Lord Chaitanya loved to perform kirtan with His associates. For a whole day, they continuously chanted Hare Krishna.

One day big clouds gathered in the sky. There was loud thunder all around. Everyone, including the devotees, were afraid.

Lord Chaitanya took His kartals and began to chant:

HARE KRISHNA
HARE KRISHNA
KRISHNA KRISHNA
HARE HARE
HARE RAMA
HARE RAMA
RAMA RAMA
HARE HARE.

He looked at the clouds in the sky and chanted loudly. Within a moment the clouds disappeared, the sky cleared, and the bright moon appeared. Lord Chaitanya danced and sang with His happy devotees.

The Mango Tree

One day Lord Chaitanya was performing kirtan with His devotees. After sometime the devotees sat down, tired and hungry. So Lord Chaitanya placed a mango seed in the ground; immediately it began to shoot and a mango tree appeared, growing bigger and bigger. Soon the tree was laden with sweet fruits. Each mango fruit was yellow, fully ripened, yet contained no skin nor seed.

Lord Chaitanya picked several fruits from the tree and offered them to Lord Krishna. He ate one fruit and distributed the other fruits to His associates. The fruit was so fulfilling no one could eat more than one mango.

In this way the tree supplied mangos continuously for one year. The devotees performed kirtan near the tree every day. They would sit under the mango tree and eat to their hearts content. This made Lord Chaitanya very happy.

Lord Chaitanya's Mercy

Just as water flows downstream,
similarly, Lord
Chaitanya's mercy flows to the most fallen.

The Lord and His devotees were always kind to the poor brahmanas.

The Lord's Sickness

One day Lord Chaitanya went to Gaya with many of His friends and devotees. On the way He fell sick with a very high fever.

Lord Chaitanya asked His devotees to bring Him the water that had washed the feet of a brahmana. When they brought Him the water, He drank some and the fever disappeared and He recovered.

The Lord and His devotees
were always kind to the pure brahmanas.

The Lord's sickness

One day Lord Krishna was to give with many of his friends and devotees. On the way he fell sick with a very high fever.
Lord Krishna's devotees to find the cause of his illness watched him for some time. When the doctor came to examine him said that the fever disappeared and the recovery.

Lord Chaitanya Teaches Sachimata

One day Lord Chaitanya went to His mother, prostrated at her feet and prayed to her:

“Dear Mother please give Me your blessing.”

Mother Sachi said:

“My dear son, I will give You whatever You ask for.”

The Lord smiled and said:

“Please, never eat grains on Ekadasi day.”

“You’ve spoken very well, my dear Nimai,” said Sachimata. “Never again will I eat grains on Ekadasi.”

From that day Sachimata always observed a fast on Ekadasi.

A Tailor Becomes a Devotee

Srivasa Thakur knew a tailor who could sew very nicely, but He was a meat-eater. He wasn't a devotee.

One day the tailor became very happy seeing Lord Chaitanya dancing ecstatically, so he stayed nearby to observe the Lord's wonderful kirtan pastimes.

Lord Chaitanya desired to show mercy to the tailor, so He showed him His original form of Krishna.

The tailor was transformed in ecstasy and began exclaiming loudly:

“I have seen Him! I have seen Him!” And began to dance with Lord Chaitanya.

After that, the tailor became one of the best devotees of the Lord.

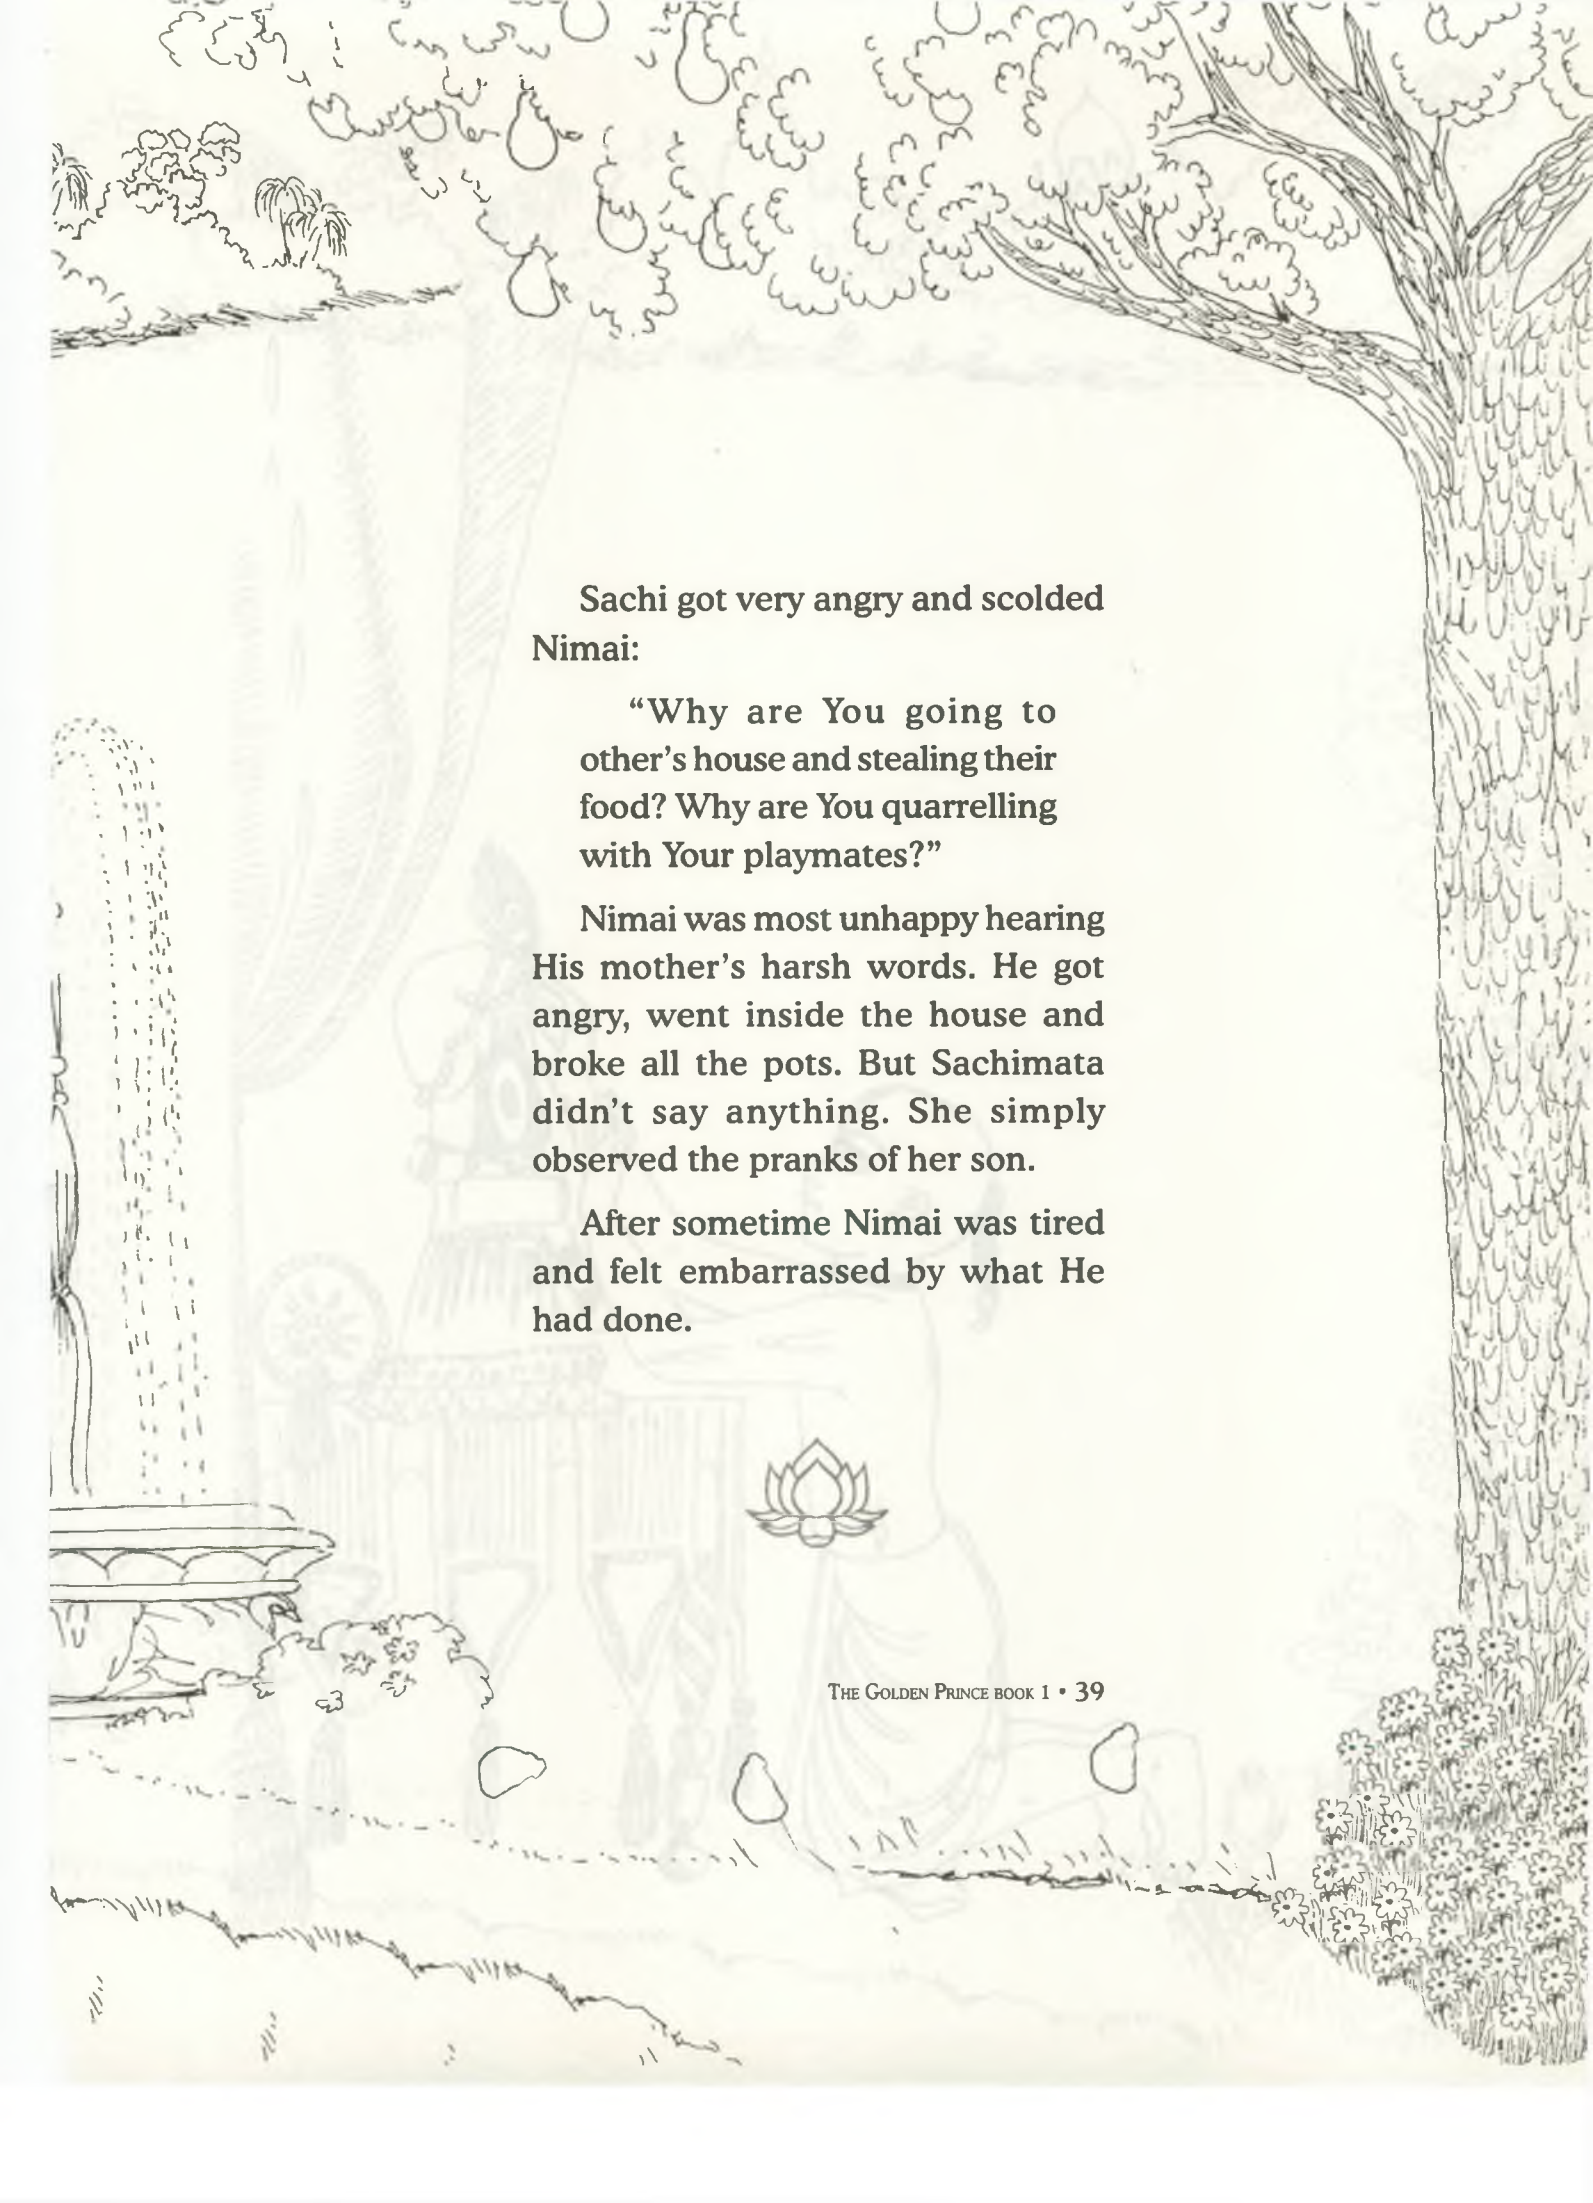

The Anger of Lord Chaitanya

Baby Nimai loved to play. One day Nimai and His friends went to a neighbour's house, stole all the food and distributed it. Afterwards they played with their friends and soon Nimai began quarrelling with His playmates.

The children went to Sachimata and complained:

“Nimai steals food from our house. He eats the stolen food and quarrels with us.”

Sachi got very angry and scolded Nimai:

“Why are You going to other’s house and stealing their food? Why are You quarrelling with Your playmates?”

Nimai was most unhappy hearing His mother’s harsh words. He got angry, went inside the house and broke all the pots. But Sachimata didn’t say anything. She simply observed the pranks of her son.

After sometime Nimai was tired and felt embarrassed by what He had done.

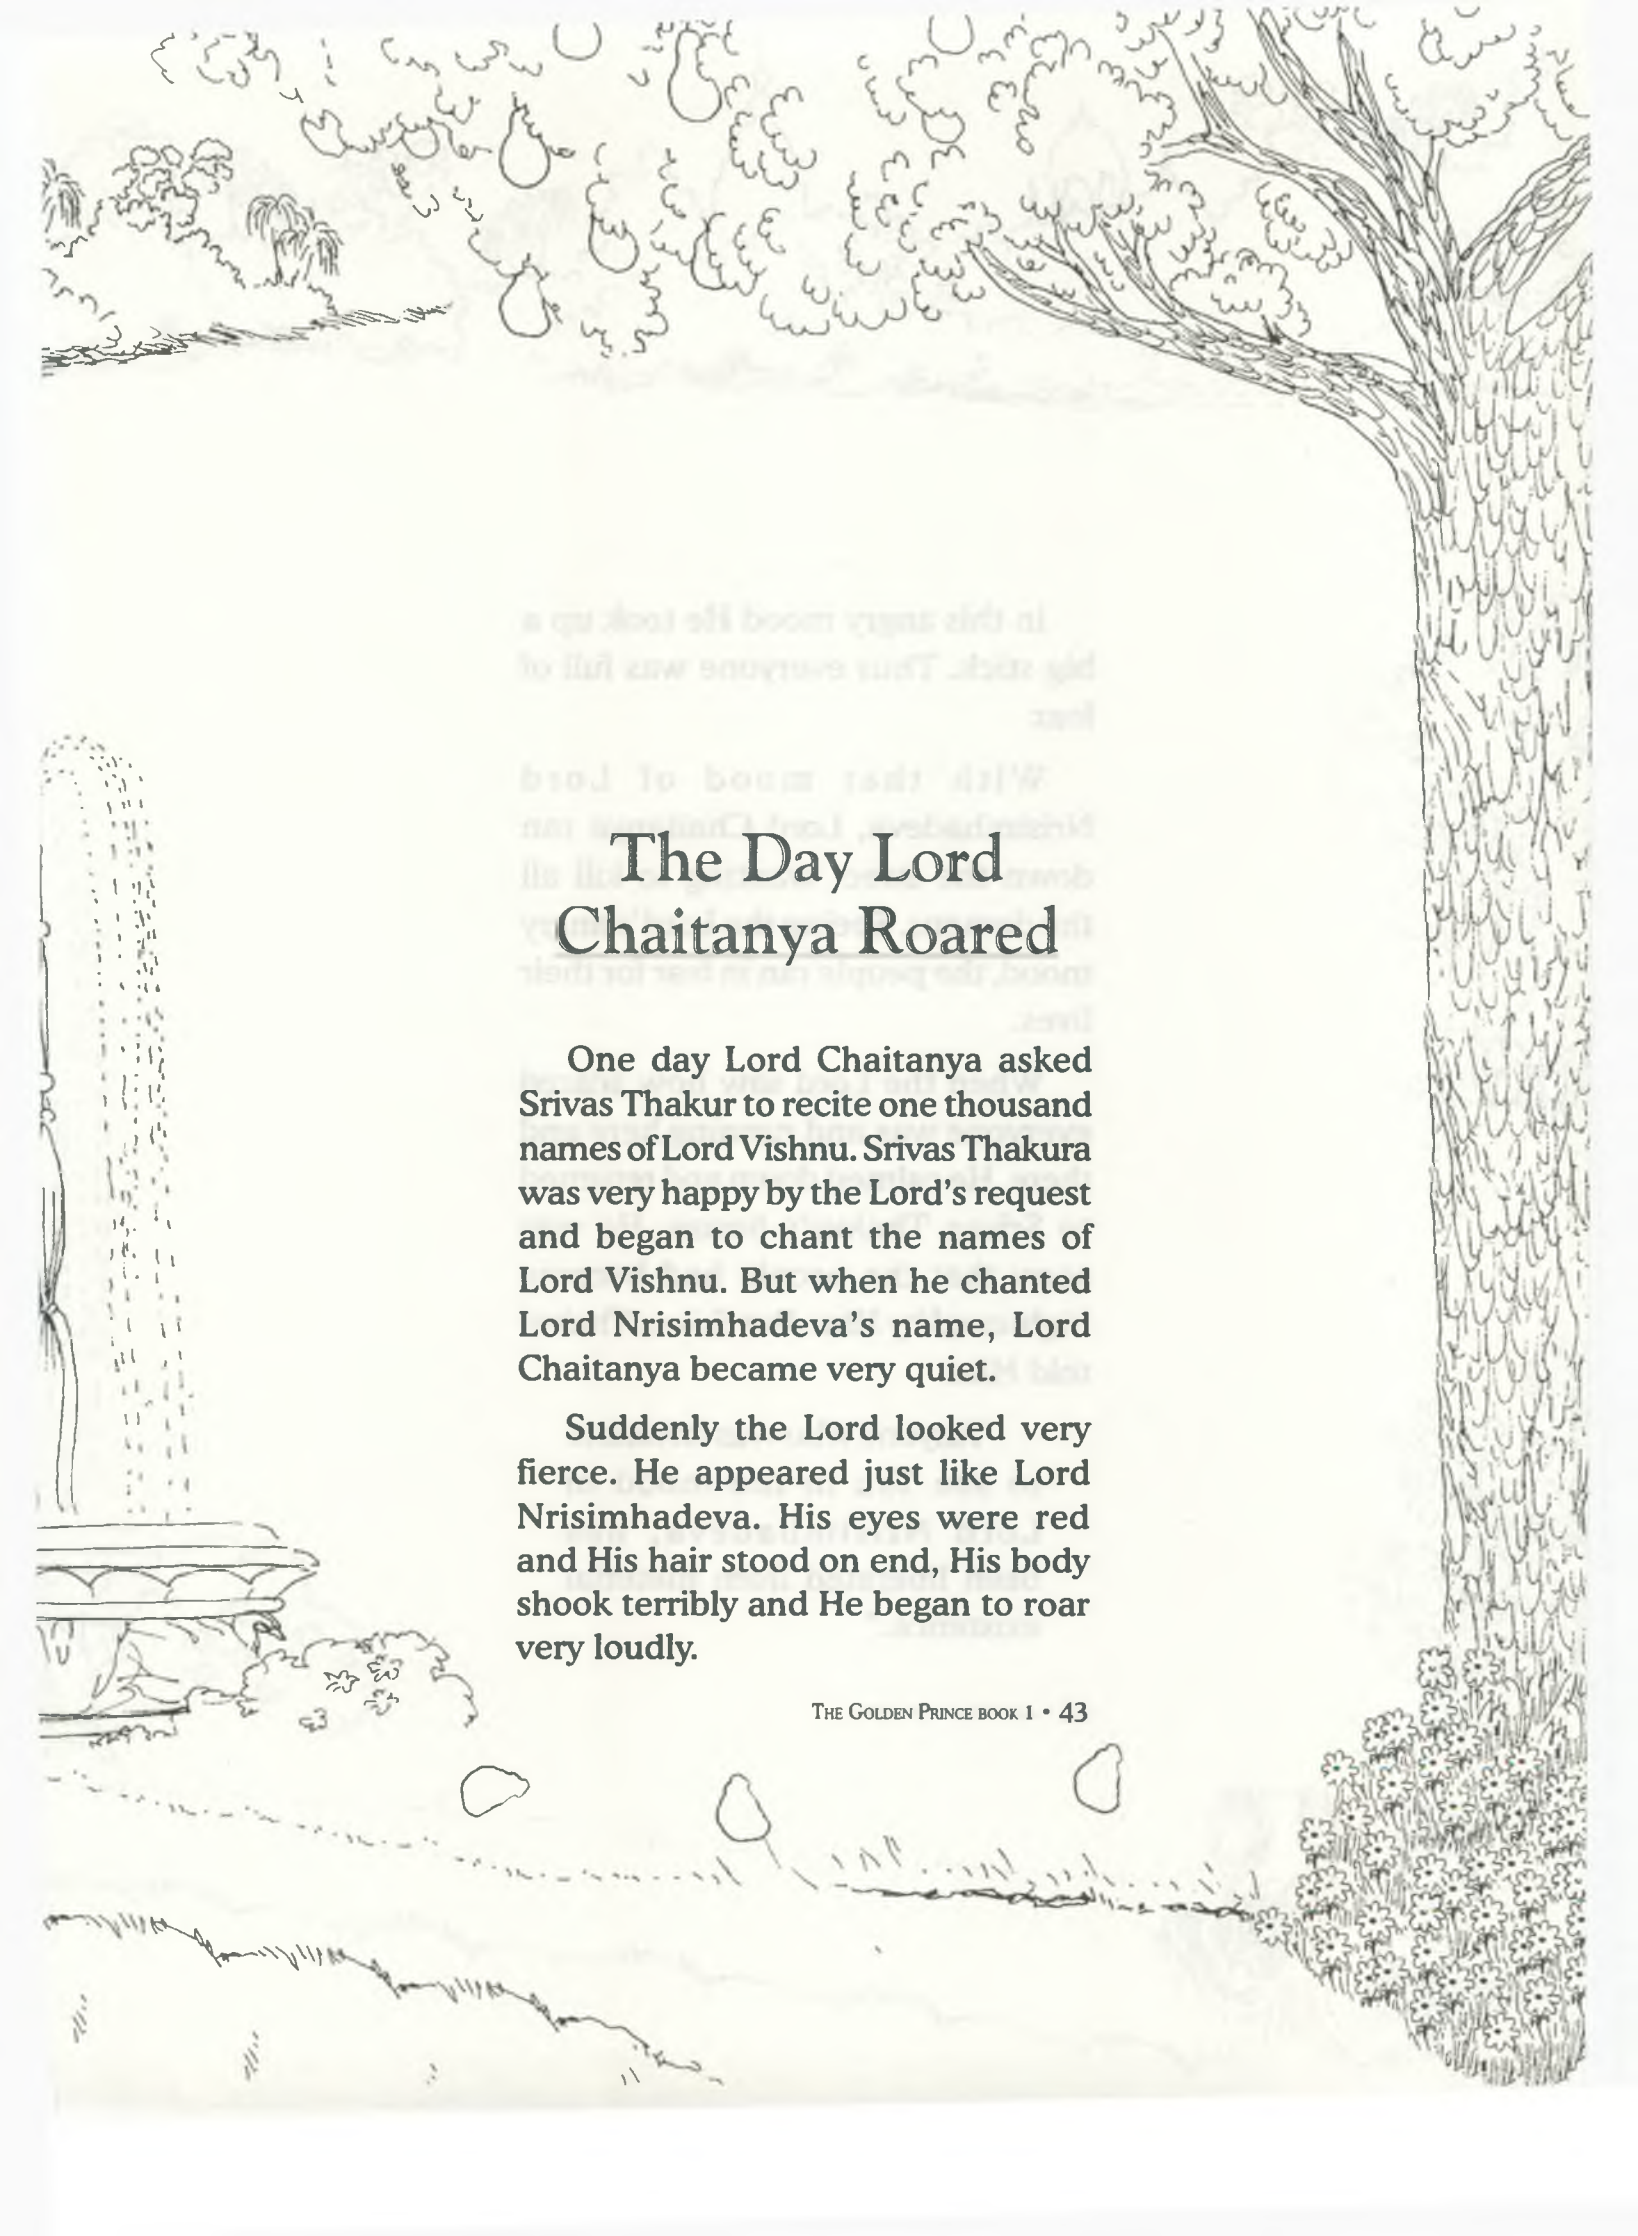

My Deity

In the field I cultivate flowers to offer to Lord Krishna, and I prostrate at His lotus feet asking Him to let me be His devotee.

I happily dance in the temple night and day, in full ecstasy.

The Day Lord Chaitanya Roared

One day Lord Chaitanya asked Srivas Thakur to recite one thousand names of Lord Vishnu. Srivas Thakura was very happy by the Lord's request and began to chant the names of Lord Vishnu. But when he chanted Lord Nrisimhadeva's name, Lord Chaitanya became very quiet.

Suddenly the Lord looked very fierce. He appeared just like Lord Nrisimhadeva. His eyes were red and His hair stood on end, His body shook terribly and He began to roar very loudly.

In this angry mood He took up a big stick. Thus everyone was full of fear.

With that mood of Lord Nrisimhadeva, Lord Chaitanya ran down the street wanting to kill all the demons. Seeing the Lord's angry mood, the people ran in fear for their lives.

When the Lord saw how scared everyone was and running here and there, He calmed down and returned to Srivas Thakur's house. He was sorry that the people had become frightened by Him. But Srivas Thakur told Him:

“Anyone who was fortunate to see You in the mood of Lord Nrisimhadeva, has been liberated from material existence.”

Nimai Sees His Brother

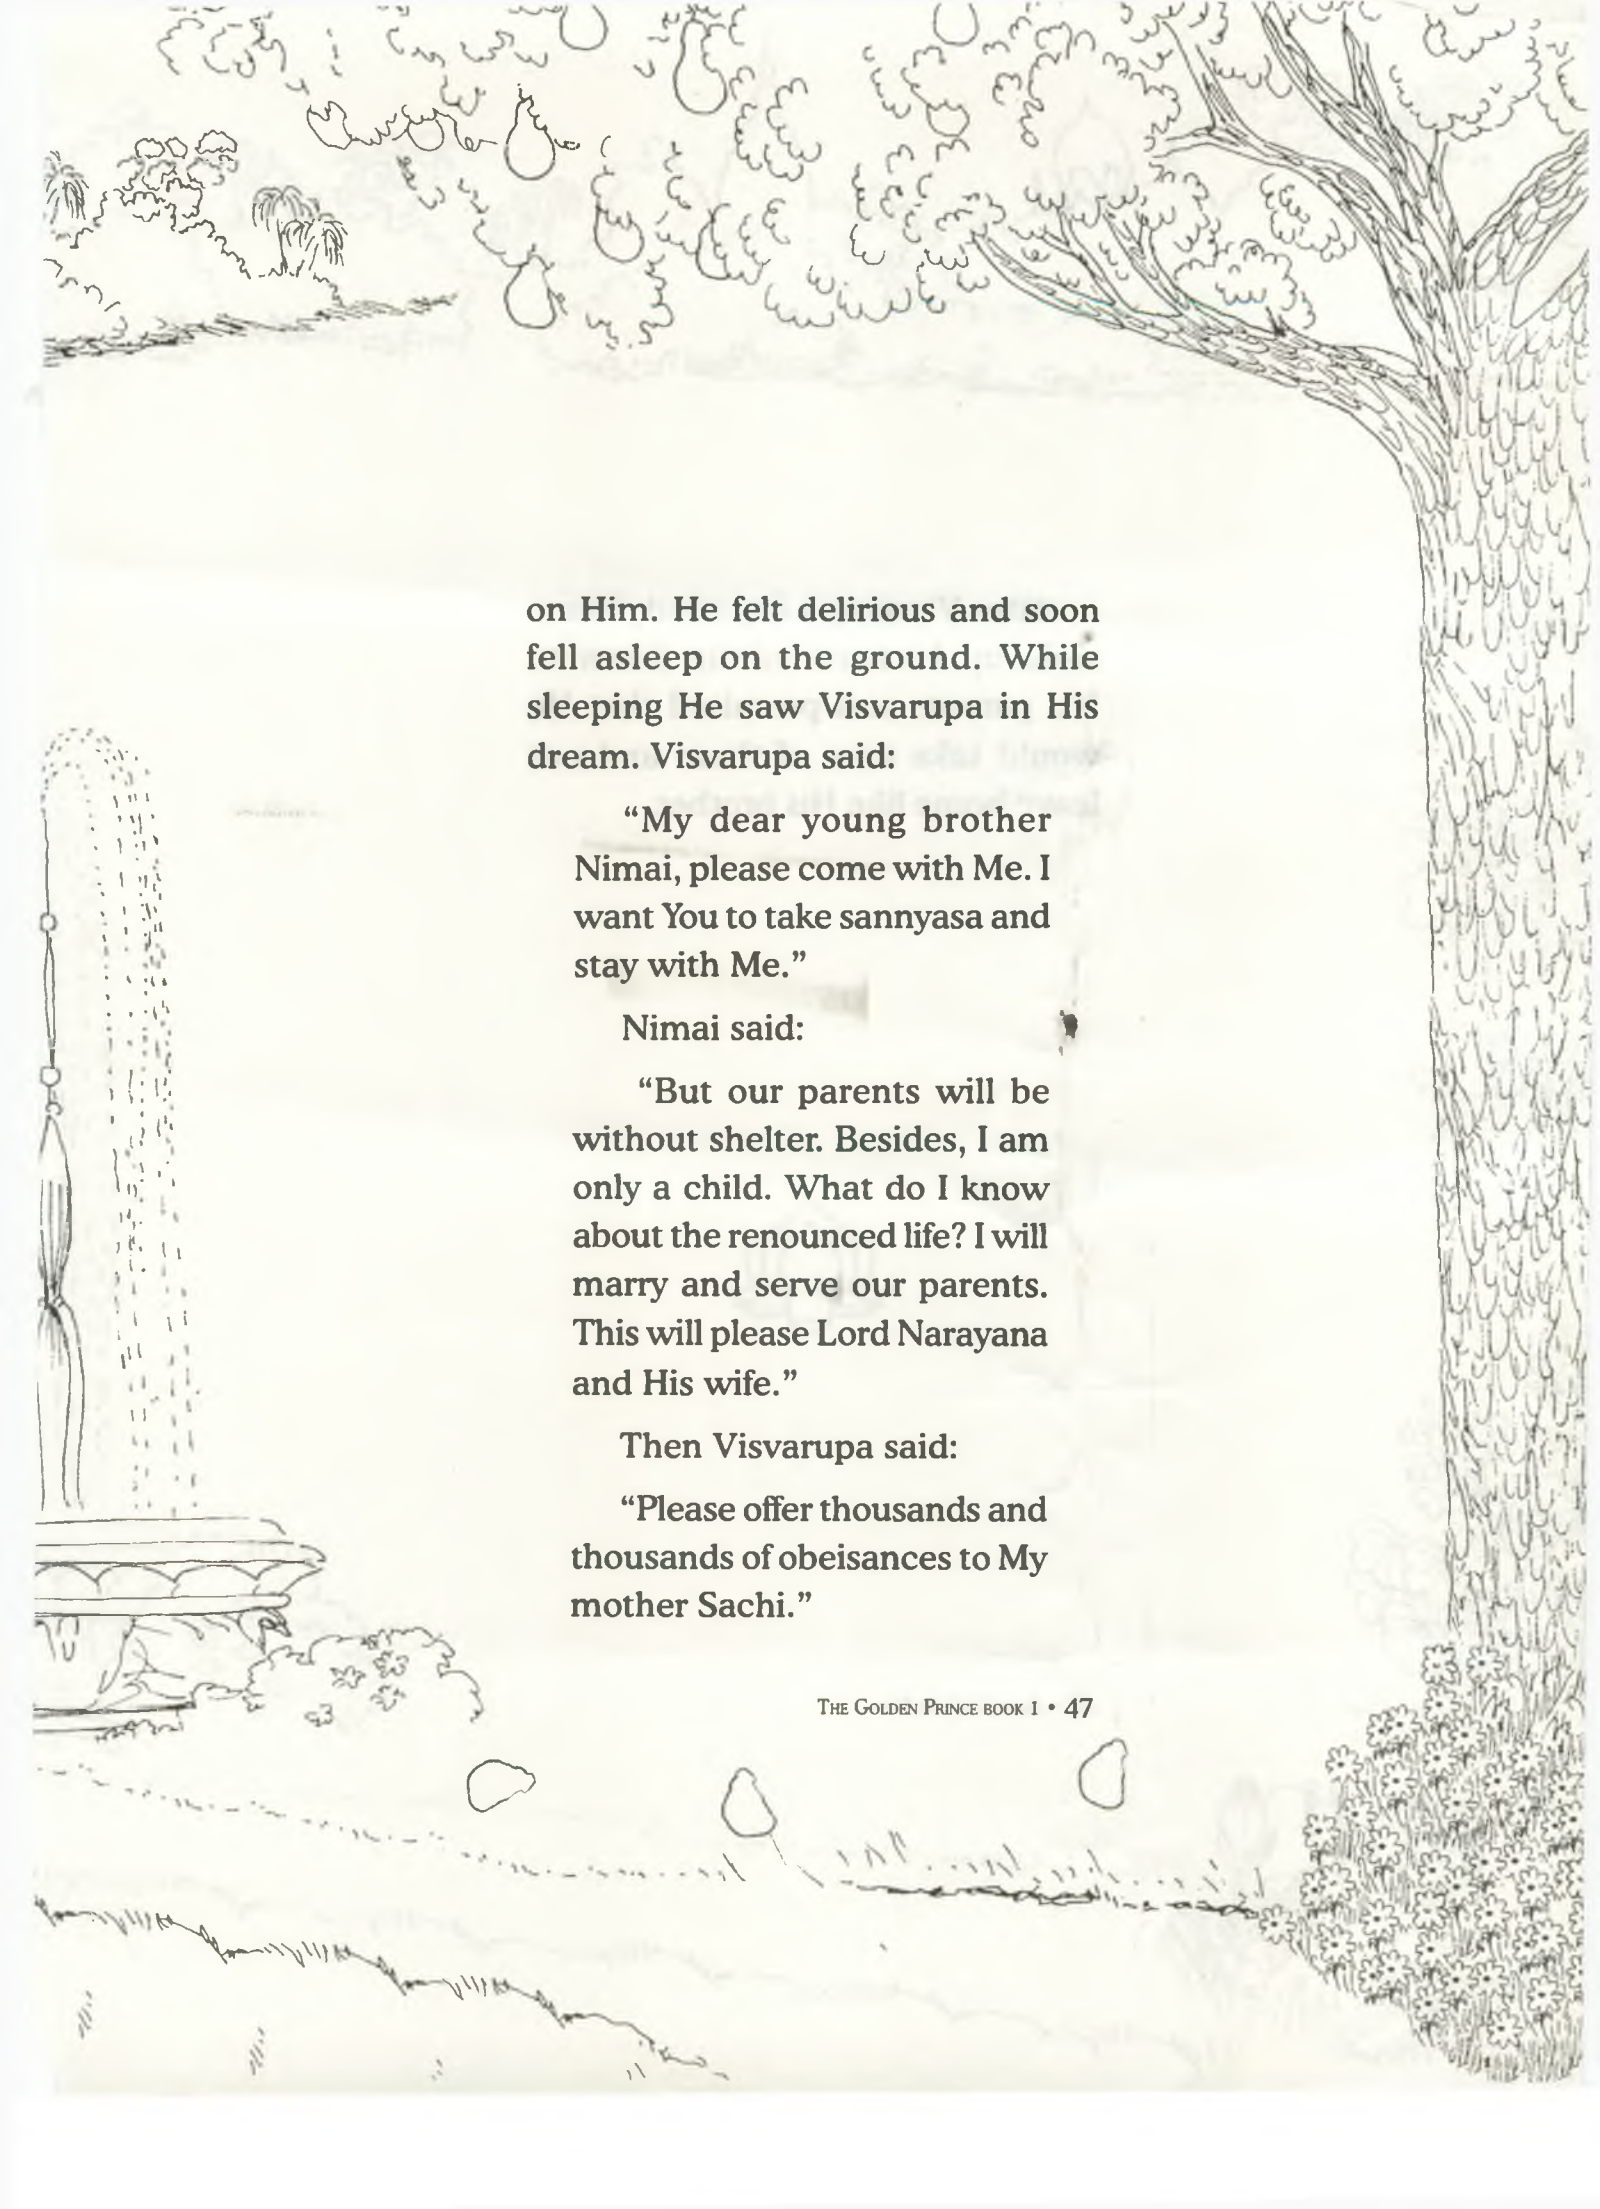

Nimai had a brother named Visvarupa. One day, Jagannath Misra, their father, said:

“Visvarupa is now a young man. I must find him a fine girl to marry.”

When Visvarupa heard about this he ran away from home. He took up the order of sannyasa and walked to all the holy places in India.

One day Nimai ate a few betel nuts. The betel nut had some effect on Him. He felt delirious and soon fell asleep on the ground. While sleeping He saw Visvarupa in His dream. Visvarupa said:

“My dear young brother Nimai, please come with Me. I want You to take sannyasa and stay with Me.”

Nimai said:

“But our parents will be without shelter. Besides, I am only a child. What do I know about the renounced life? I will marry and serve our parents. This will please Lord Narayana and His wife.”

Then Visvarupa said:

“Please offer thousands and thousands of obeisances to My mother Sachi.”

After Visvarupa departed, Nimai woke up. He narrated this dream to His parents and promised that He would take care of them and not leave home like His brother.

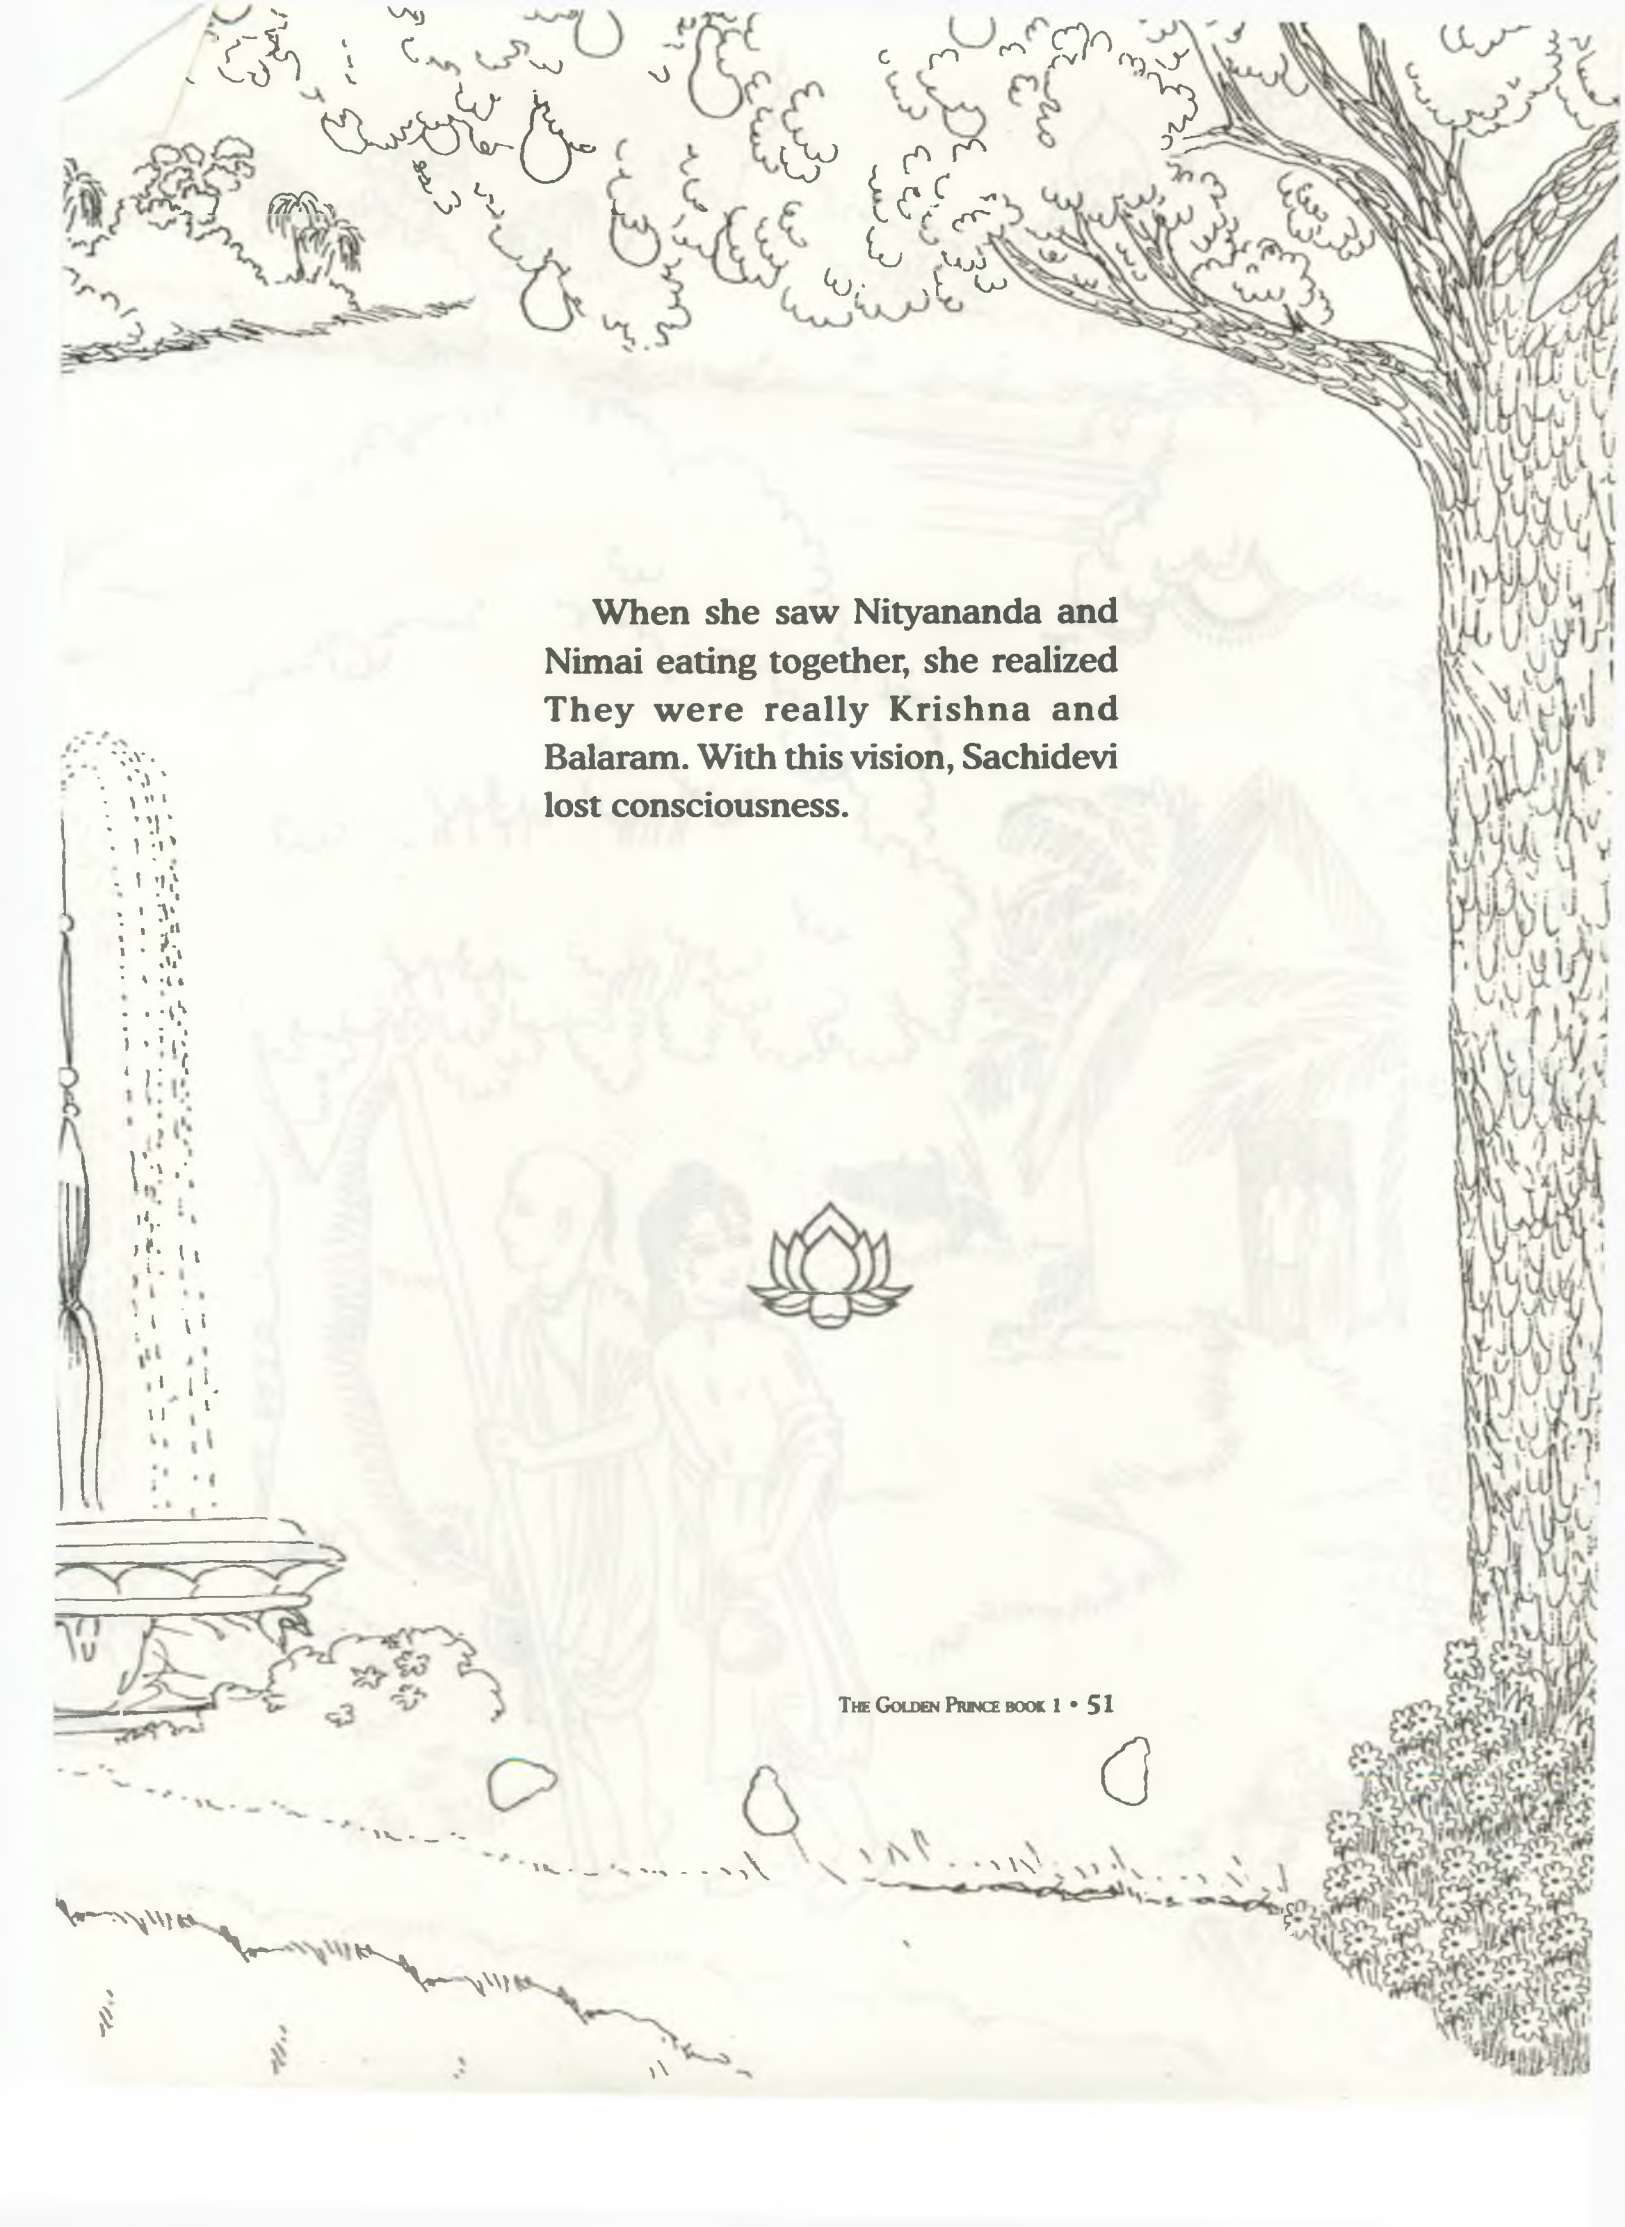

Mother Sachi's Vision

One night Sachidevi had a dream.
In the dream she saw that her Krishna and Balaram Deities had transformed into Nimai and Nitai.

She saw Them quarrelling with each other over the food she had placed on the altar for the offering.

Next day, Sachimata asked Nityananda to come to her house and honor prasadam.

When she saw Nityananda and Nimai eating together, she realized
They were really Krishna and Balaram. With this vision, Sachidevi lost consciousness.

Nityananda Leaves
His Home

Lord Nityananda lived in a small village. When He was a young boy, He would engage his friends in enacting dramas of the pastimes of Krishna, Balaram, Ramachandra, and sometimes as Lakshman, the brother of Lord Rama.

One day a sannyasi came to Lord Nityananda's house with a request to His father:

“Your son is very gentle. I want Him to come traveling with me to the holy places. He will be my servant.”

Because Nityananda’s father, Harai Pandit, wanted to please the sannyasi, he agreed to let Nityananda go. Nityananda and the sannyasi traveled to many holy places, including Mathura.

When Nityananda heard about the glories of Lord Chaitanya, He became very happy. He then went to the place where Lord Chaitanya lived.

Lord Chaitanya and Lord Nityananda are not different from each other.

The Big Kirtan

If there would be one word to describe Krishna,
what word would it be?

If a song from each person were to praise Krishna,
what song would it be?

If every food item were offered to Krishna,
how big amount of food would it be?

If a person would work without reward to please Krishna, how great a devotee would he be?

And if devotees with all their offerings of food items,
songs and poems,
would come to see Srila Prabhupada,
what a big kirtan would it be!

The Brahmana's Offering

One day a mendicant brahmana came to Jagannath Misra's house with his Gopal Deity. Jagannath Misra received him respectfully and gave him all facility for worshipping his Gopal. The pilgrim had been traveling for a long time and desired to cook something to offer Gopal. He prepared many nice dishes, and with a satisfied mind began to offer them, asking Gopal to come and enjoy His food.

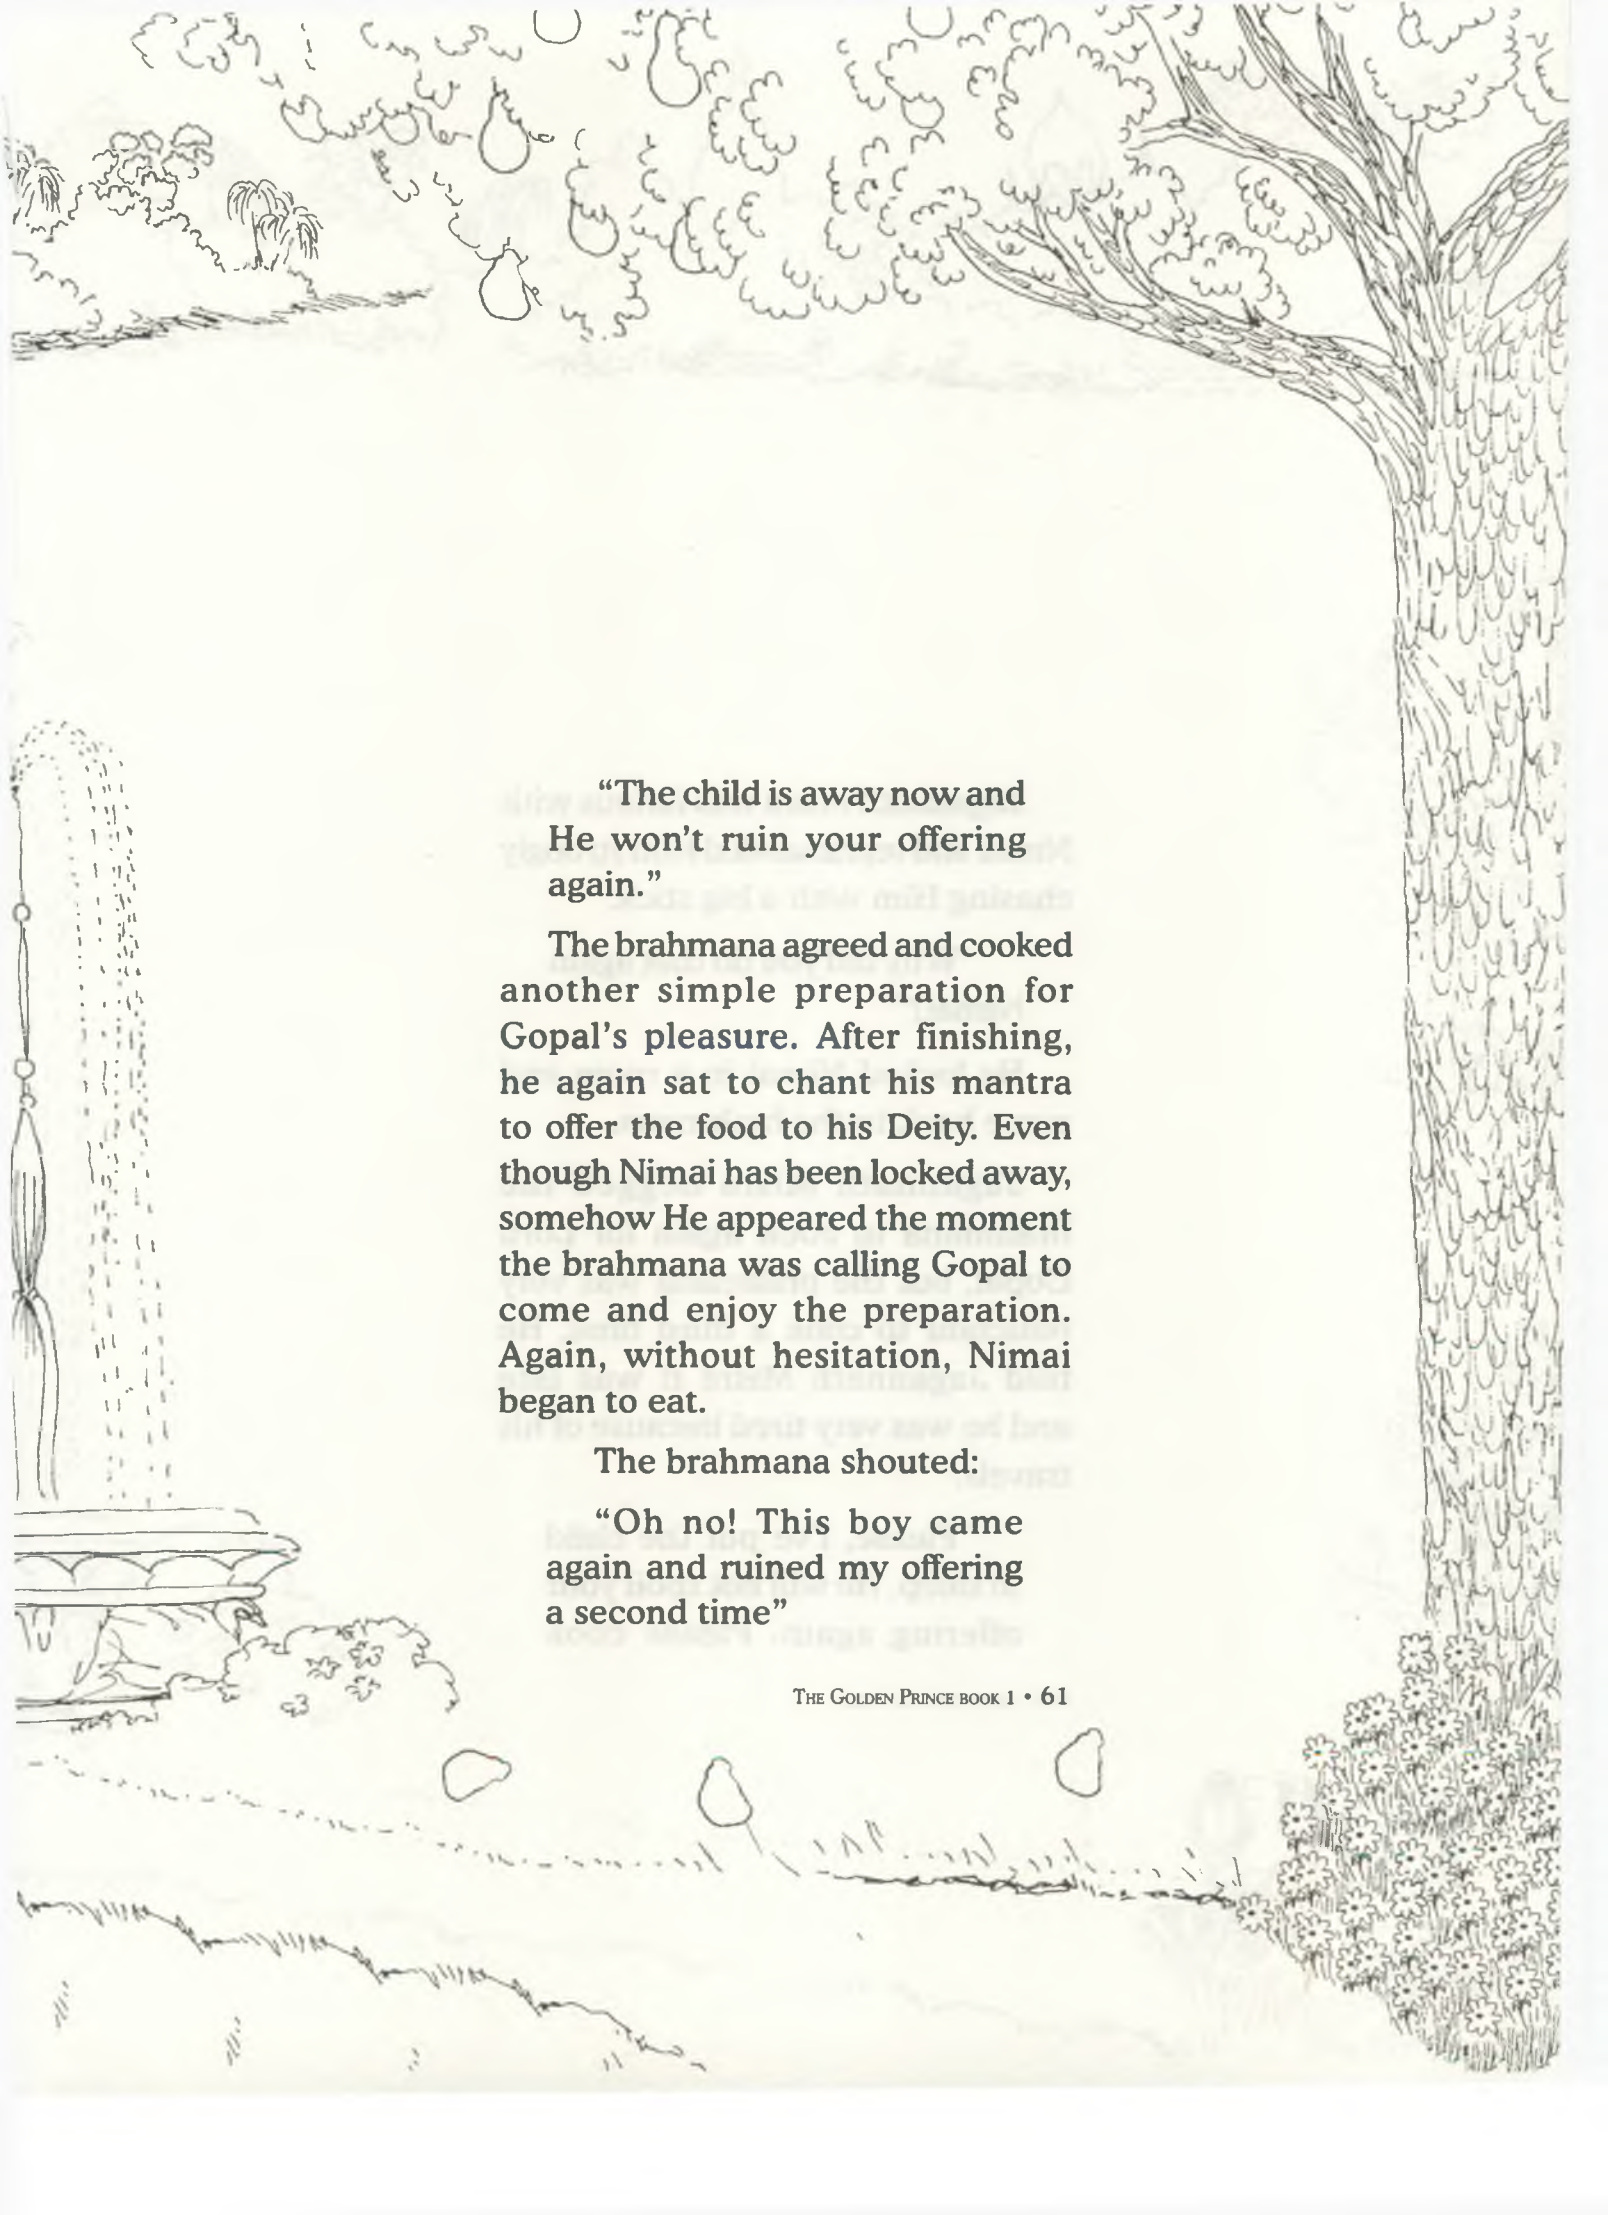

When the brahmana was meditating on Gopal, calling Him to come and accept the offering, Nimai came without hesitation and began eating the offering directly from the altar.

“Oh no!” shouted the brahmana. “This boy has touched the offering. Now it is ruined and can’t be given to Gopal.”

When Jagannath Misra heard about it he became angry and chastised Nimai for spoiling the brahmana’s offering. He chased Nimai out of the room and went back to the brahmana.

“Please cook again,” Jagannath Misra said pacifying the brahmana.

“The child is away now and He won’t ruin your offering again.”

The brahmana agreed and cooked another simple preparation for Gopal’s pleasure. After finishing, he again sat to chant his mantra to offer the food to his Deity. Even though Nimai has been locked away, somehow He appeared the moment the brahmana was calling Gopal to come and enjoy the preparation. Again, without hesitation, Nimai began to eat.

The brahmana shouted:

“Oh no! This boy came again and ruined my offering a second time”

Jagannath Misra was furious with Nimai and reprimanded Him strongly chasing Him with a big stick:

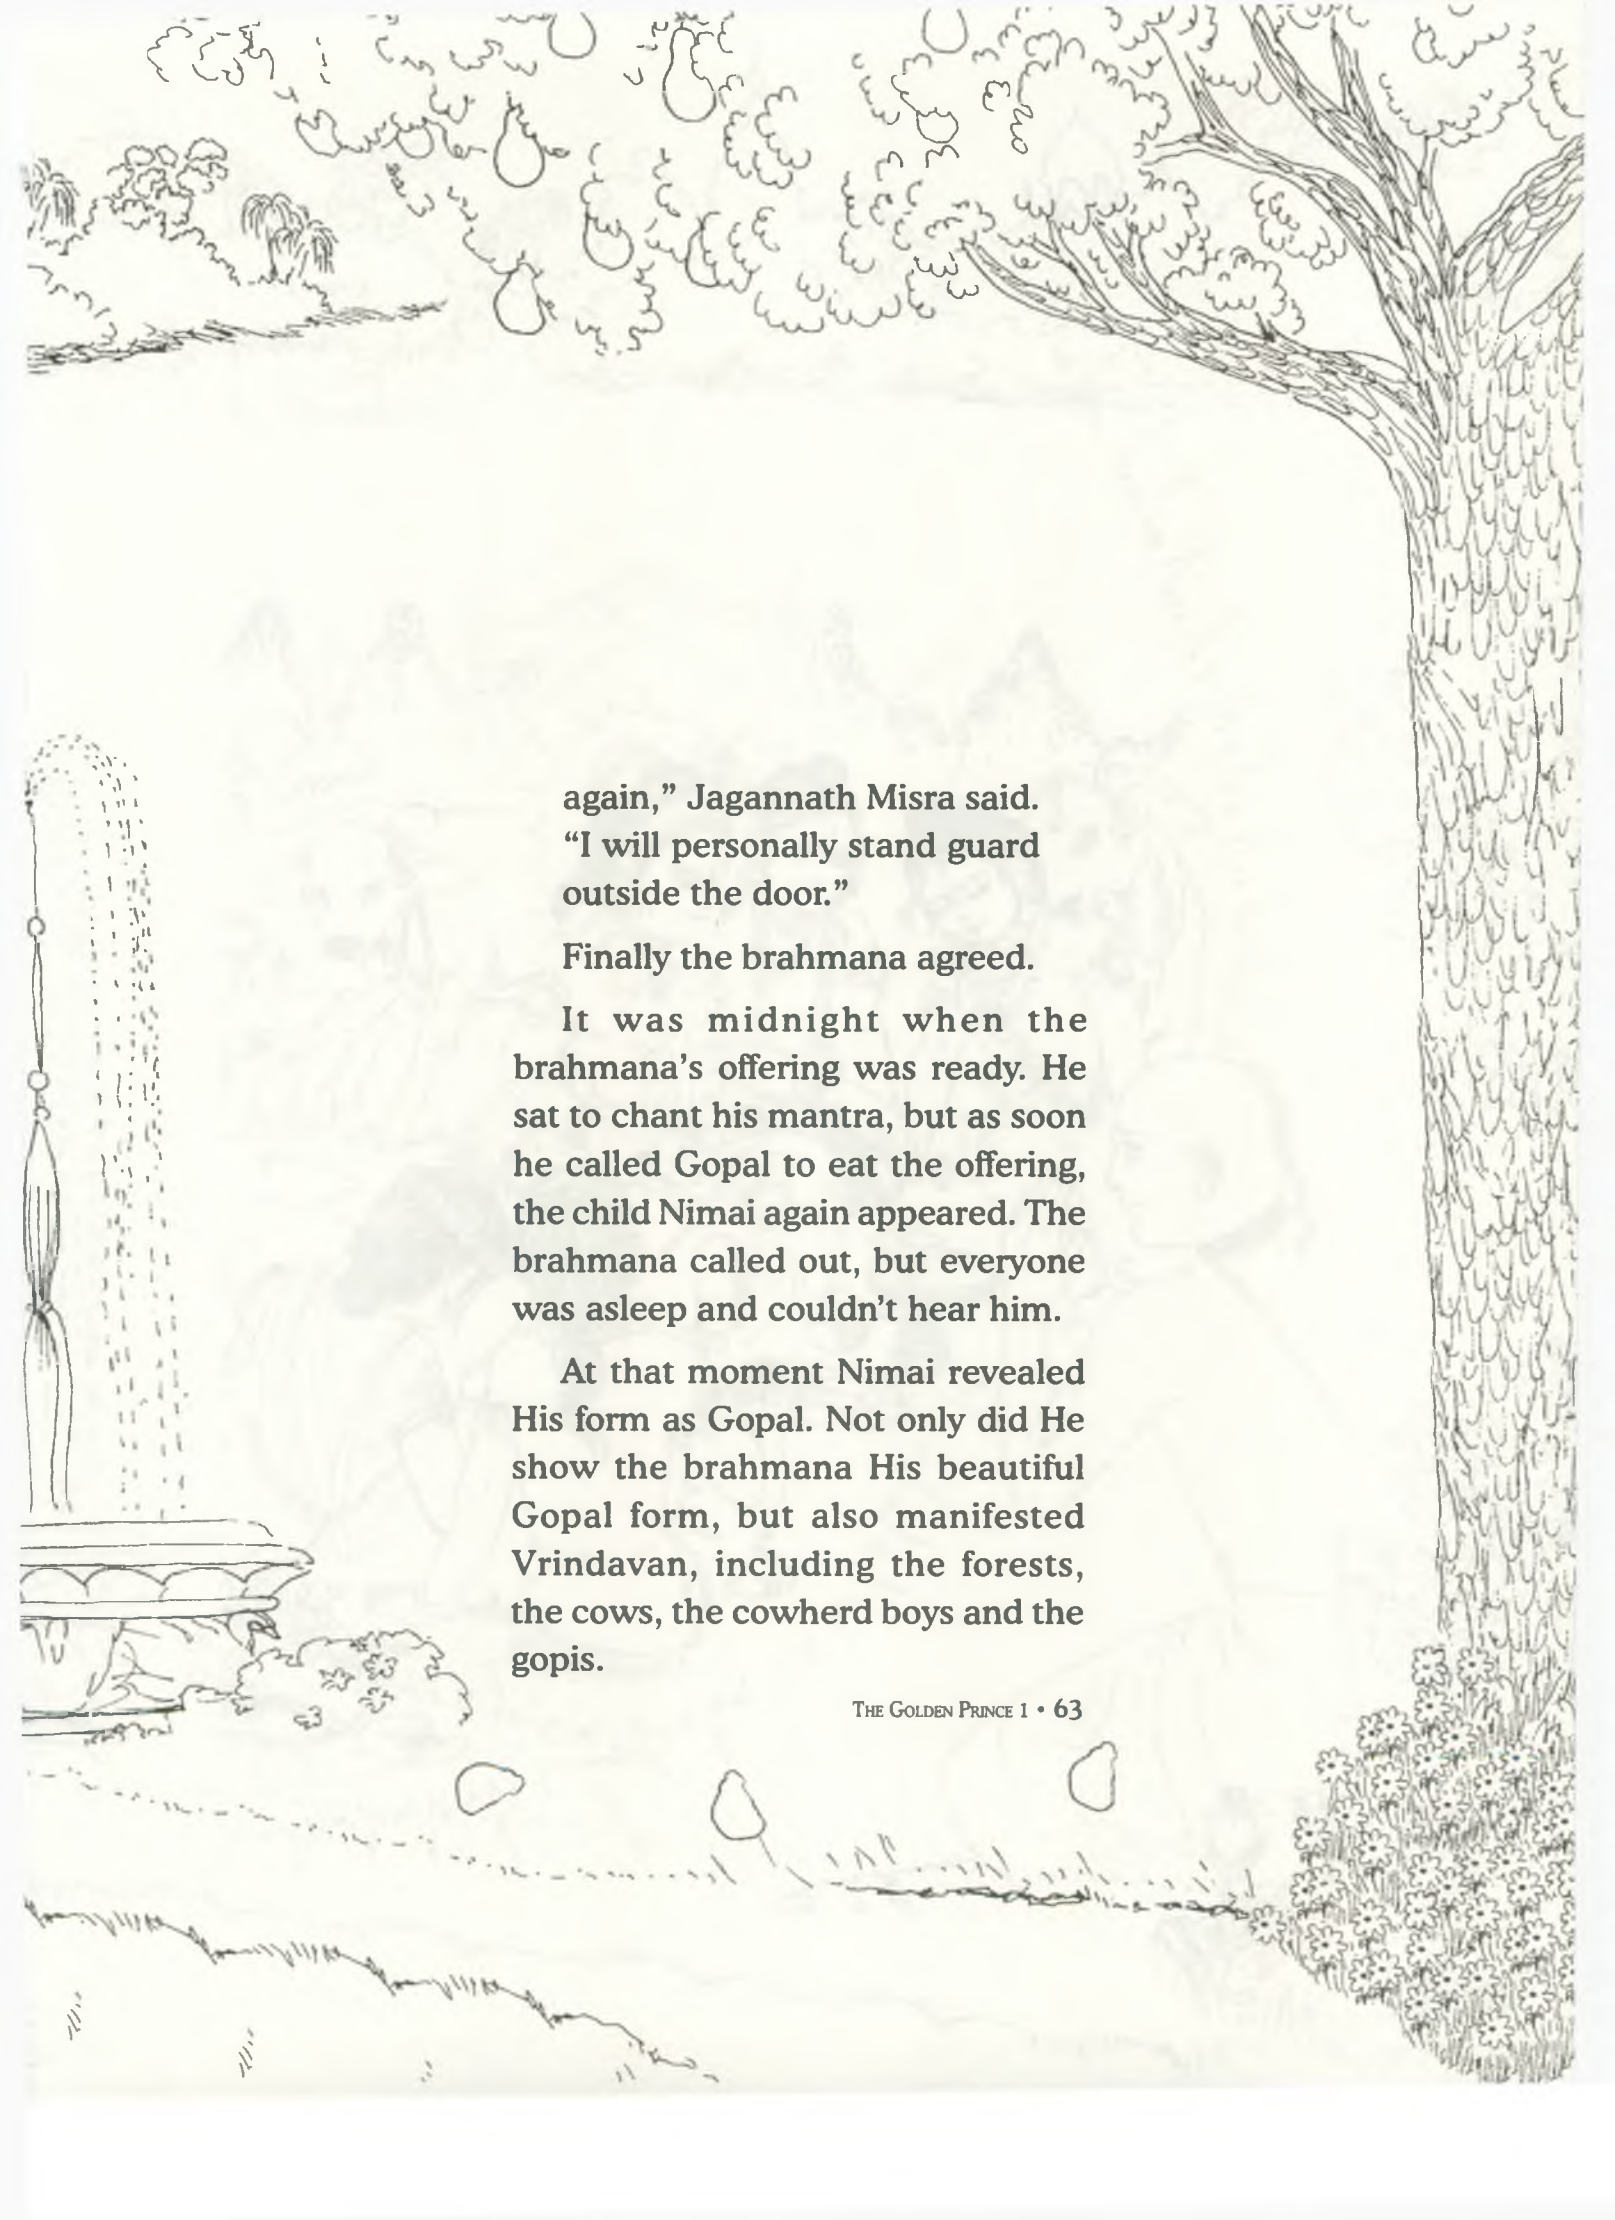

“Why did you do that again Nimai?”

He locked Nimai in a room and came back to the brahmana.

Jagannath Misra begged the brahmana to cook again for Lord Gopal, but the brahmana was very reluctant to cook a third time. He told Jagannath Misra it was late and he was very tired because of his travels.

“Please, I’ve put the child to sleep. He will not spoil your offering again. Please cook again,” Jagannath Misra said.

“I will personally stand guard outside the door.”

Finally the brahmana agreed.

It was midnight when the brahmana’s offering was ready. He sat to chant his mantra, but as soon he called Gopal to eat the offering, the child Nimai again appeared. The brahmana called out, but everyone was asleep and couldn’t hear him.

At that moment Nimai revealed His form as Gopal. Not only did He show the brahmana His beautiful Gopal form, but also manifested Vrindavan, including the forests, the cows, the cowherd boys and the gopis.

Being a great devotee of Lord Gopal the brahmana was overwhelmed. He danced and sang so joyfully at having seen the Lord with his own eyes.

The brahmana left early the next morning before anyone woke up.

The History of Advaita Acharya

Sri Advaita Acharya is the spiritual master of all the devotees. He descended to this planet just before the appearance of Lord Chaitanya. He is the cause of the salvation of the entire world because he called for Lord Chaitanya to appear.

Sri Advaita was so unhappy seeing the material world full of misery, and everyone very busy in materialistic activities. He saw how no one was engaged in devotional activities to Lord Krishna.

Seeing this situation throughout the entire world, Advaita Acharya felt deeply compassionate and began to meditate on how He could benefit the whole world.

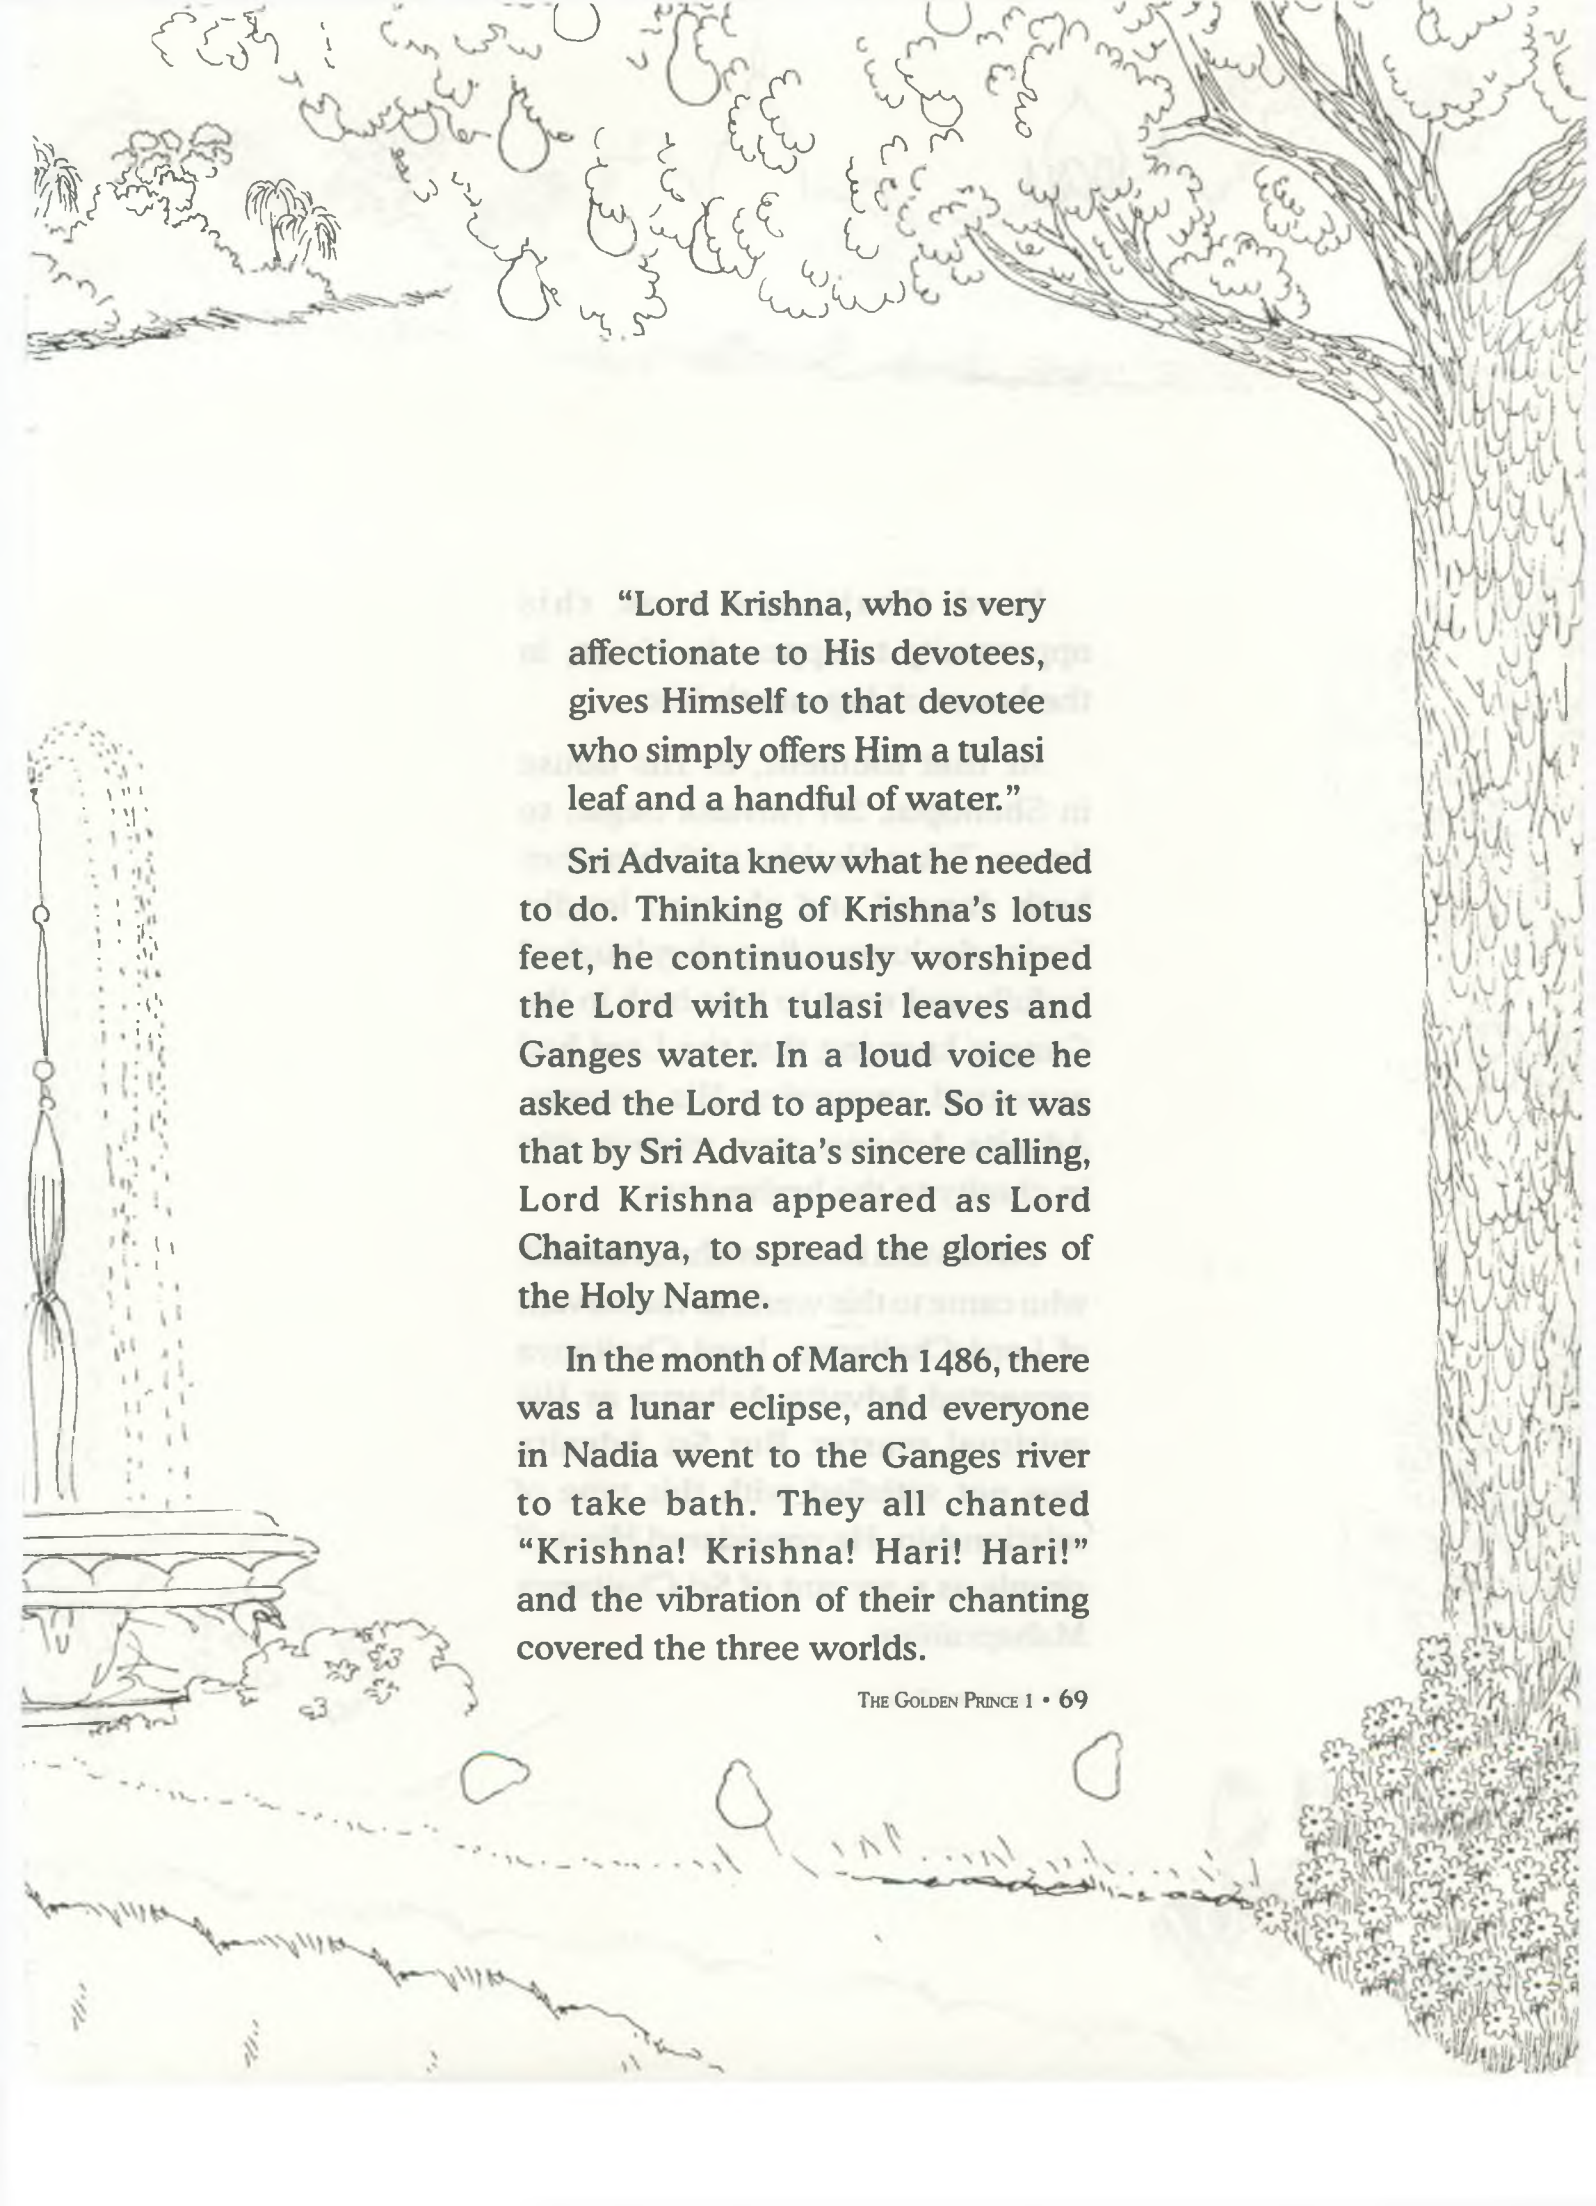

“If Krishna Himself could appear now He would be able to preach devotion to Himself.”

Sri Advaita thought:

“In this age there is no religion other than chanting the Holy Name of the Lord. I will worship Krishna with a pure mind. I will humbly call Him, continuously, until He appears.”

While Sri Advaita was thinking how to call Krishna, he remembered this verse from the scriptures:

“Lord Krishna, who is very affectionate to His devotees, gives Himself to that devotee who simply offers Him a tulasi leaf and a handful of water.”

Sri Advaita knew what he needed to do. Thinking of Krishna’s lotus feet, he continuously worshiped the Lord with tulasi leaves and Ganges water. In a loud voice he asked the Lord to appear. So it was that by Sri Advaita’s sincere calling, Lord Krishna appeared as Lord Chaitanya, to spread the glories of the Holy Name.

In the month of March 1486, there was a lunar eclipse, and everyone in Nadia went to the Ganges river to take bath. They all chanted “Krishna! Krishna! Hari! Hari!” and the vibration of their chanting covered the three worlds.

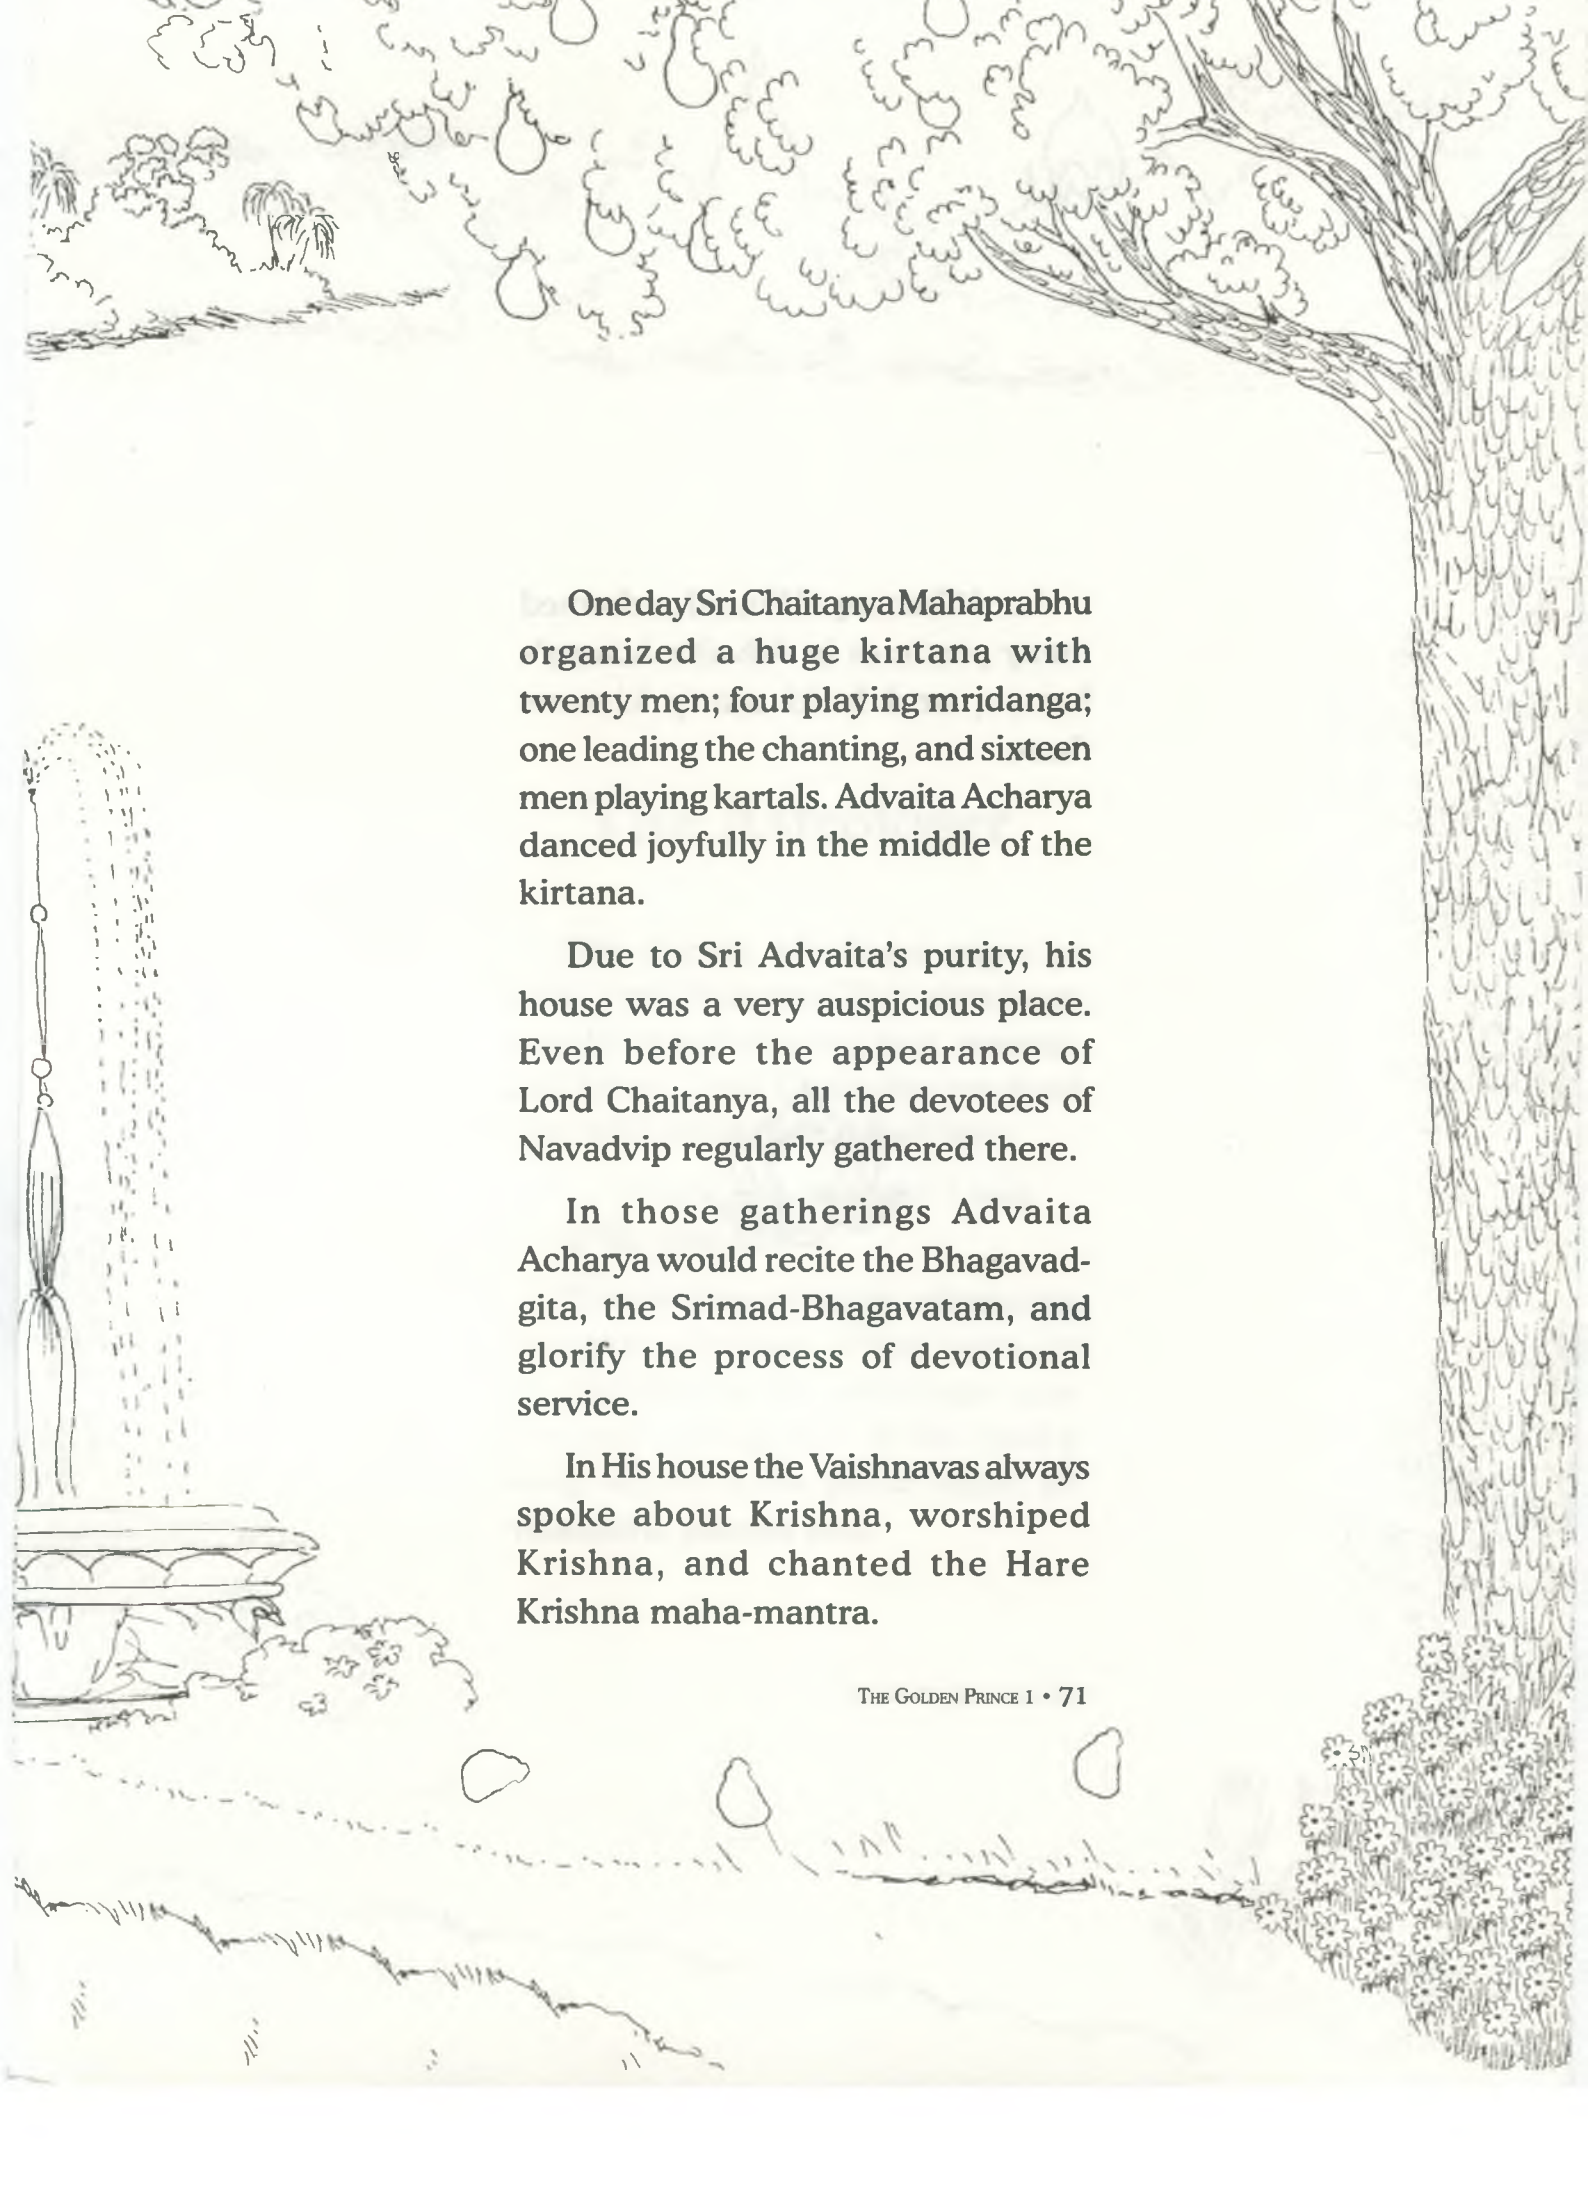

Lord Chaitanya took this opportunity to appear in Nadia, in the house of Jagannath Misra.

At that moment, in His house in Shantipur, Sri Advaita began to dance. Taken Haridas with him they both danced and chanted loudly. Seeing the lunar eclipse they laughed joyfully and went to take bath in the Ganges knowing that the Lord had appeared answering His prayers. Advaita Acharya gave various gifts in charity to the brahmanas.

Sri Advaita is Mahavishnu Himself, who came to this world as the servant of Lord Chaitanya. Lord Chaitanya respected Advaita Acharya as His spiritual master. But Sri Advaita was not satisfied with this type of relationship. He considered Himself simply as a servant of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

One day Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu organized a huge kirtana with twenty men; four playing mridanga; one leading the chanting, and sixteen men playing kartals. Advaita Acharya danced joyfully in the middle of the kirtana.

Due to Sri Advaita's purity, his house was a very auspicious place. Even before the appearance of Lord Chaitanya, all the devotees of Navadvip regularly gathered there.

In those gatherings Advaita Acharya would recite the Bhagavad-gita, the Srimad-Bhagavatam, and glorify the process of devotional service.

In His house the Vaishnavas always spoke about Krishna, worshiped Krishna, and chanted the Hare Krishna maha-mantra.

Lord Chaitanya Himself performed many pastimes in Advaita Acarya's house, and held many kirtans there.

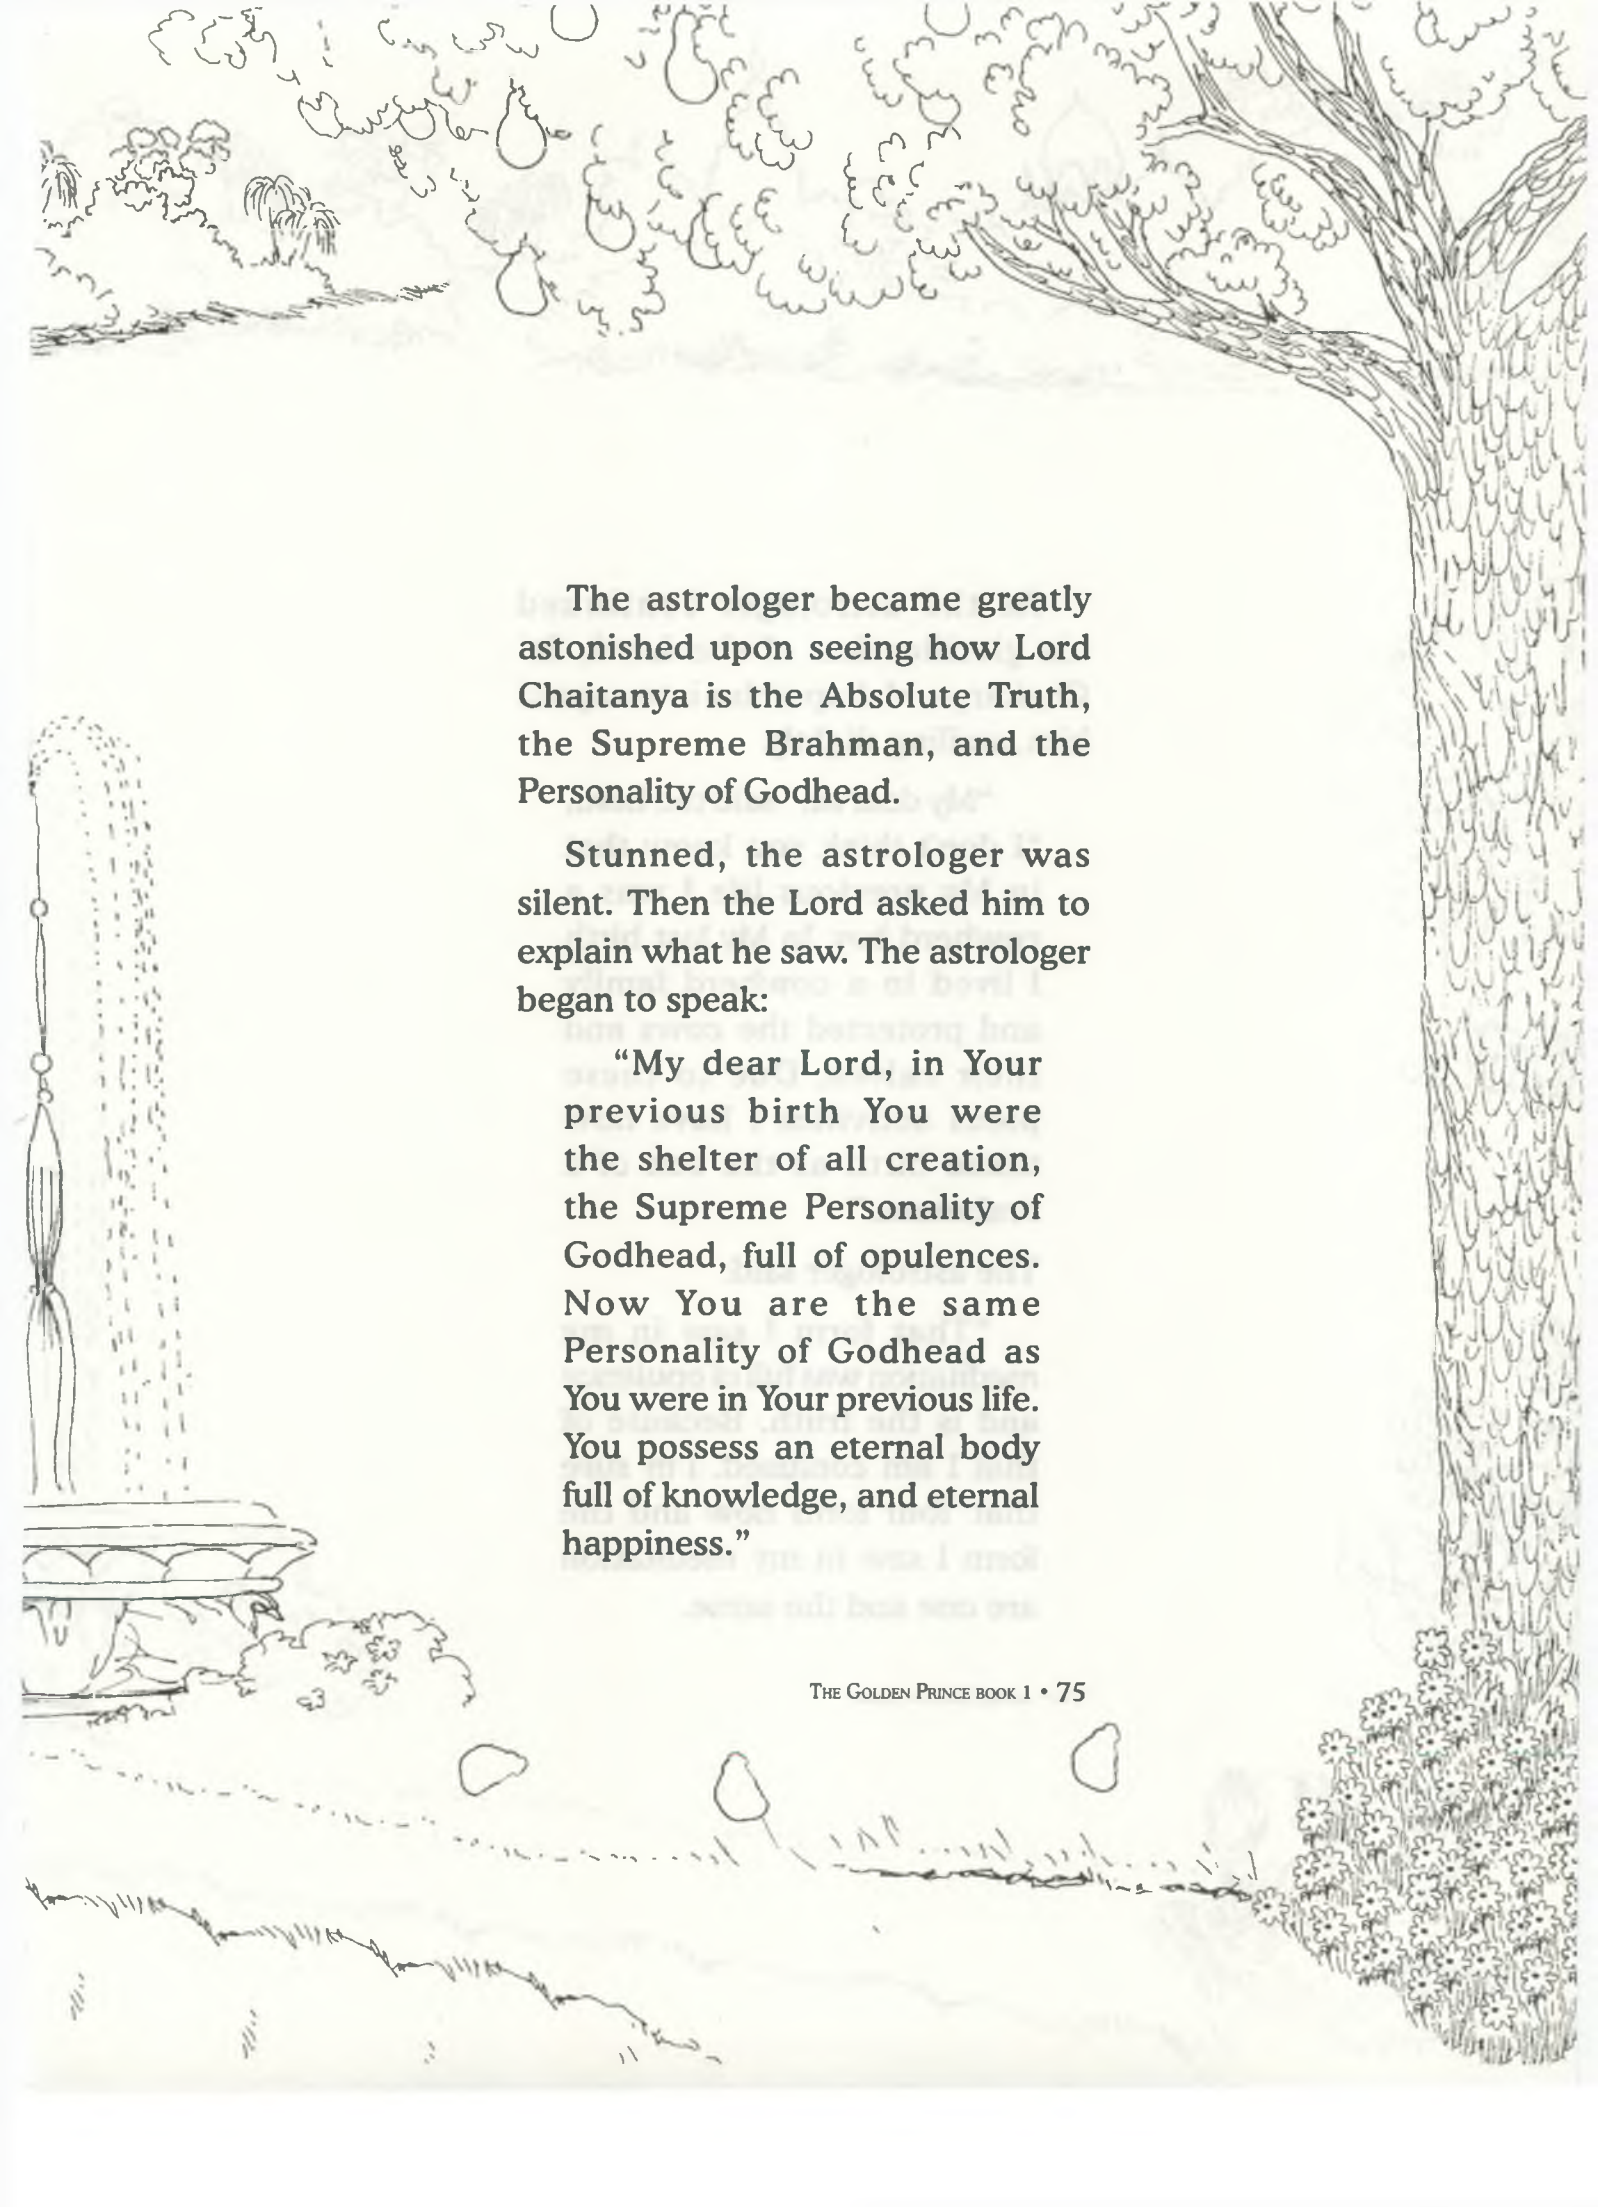

The Astrologer

One day an astrologer came to visit Lord Chaitanya. This astrologer boasted about knowing past, present, and future. Lord Chaitanya received him with honor and asked him:

“Please tell me who I was in My past life.”

The astrologer began calculating the past activities of the Lord. In his meditation the astrologer saw the great effulgence of the Lord’s body, which is the place where all Vaikuntha planets rest.

The astrologer became greatly astonished upon seeing how Lord Chaitanya is the Absolute Truth, the Supreme Brahman, and the Personality of Godhead.

Stunned, the astrologer was silent. Then the Lord asked him to explain what he saw. The astrologer began to speak:

“My dear Lord, in Your previous birth You were the shelter of all creation, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, full of opulences. Now You are the same Personality of Godhead as You were in Your previous life. You possess an eternal body full of knowledge, and eternal happiness.”

As the astrologer continued his glorification of the Lord, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu interrupted him, smiling slightly.

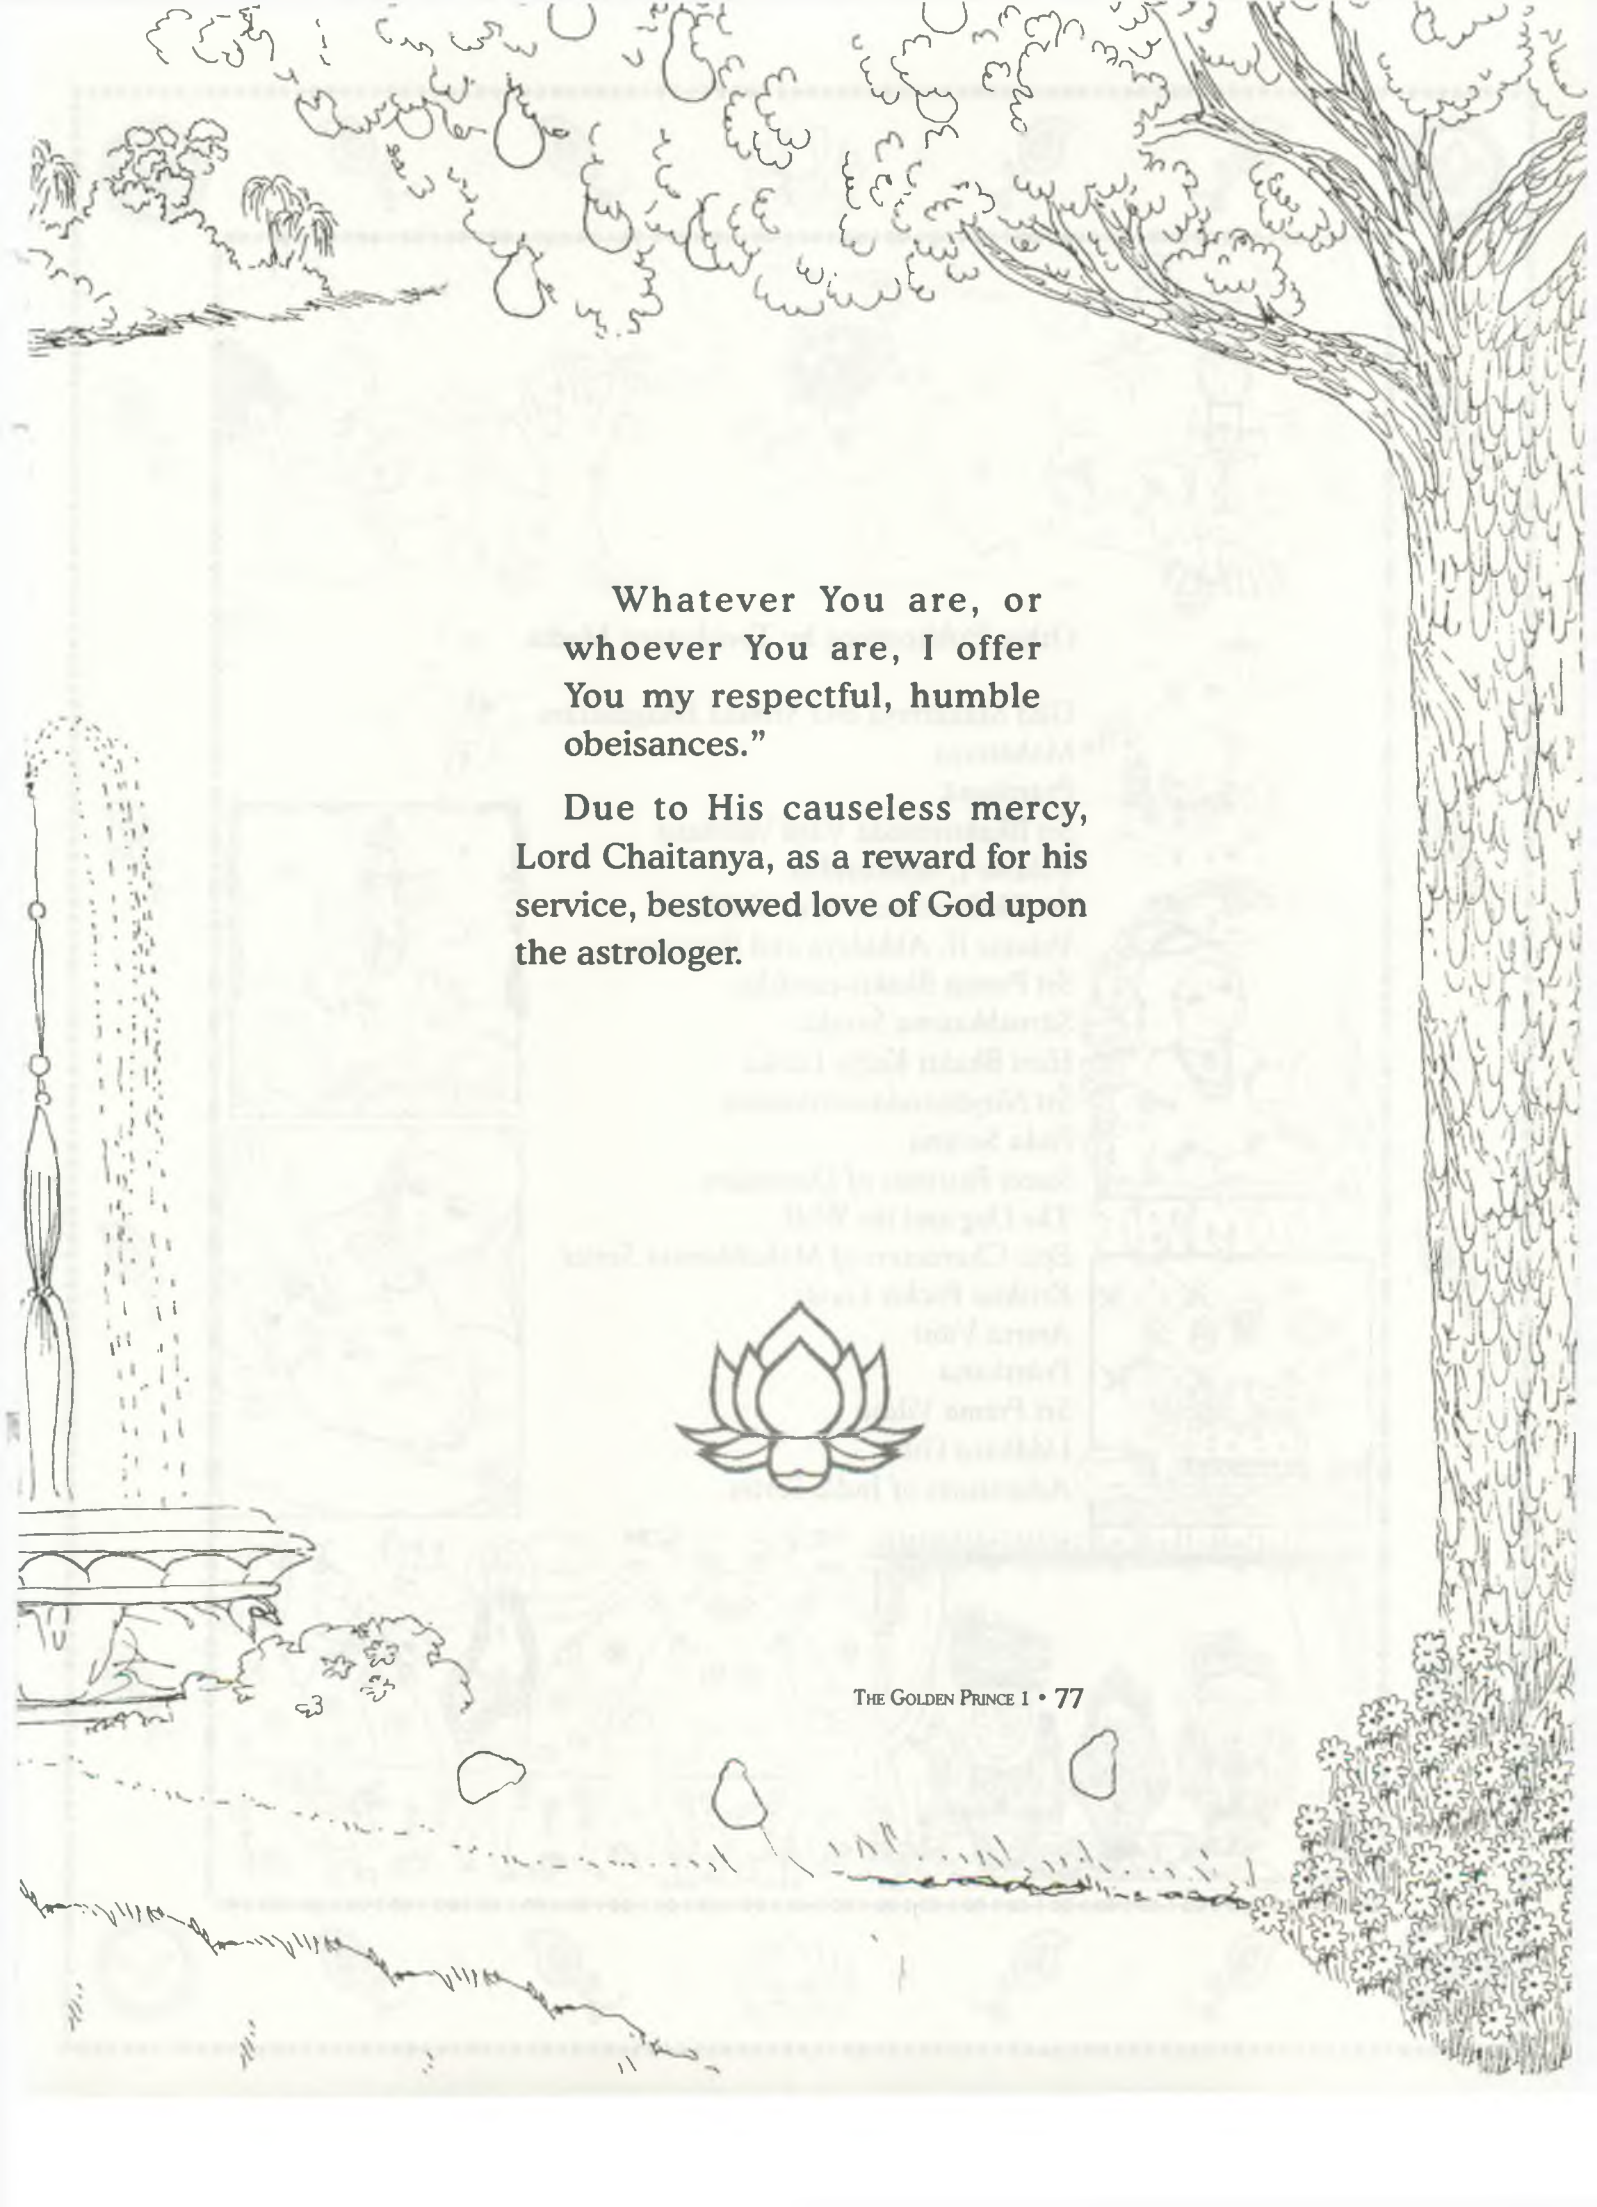

“My dear sir,” said the Lord, “I don’t think you know that in My previous life I was a cowherd boy. In My last birth I lived in a cowherd family and protected the cows and their calves. Due to these pious activities I have now taken birth as the son of a brahmana.”

The astrologer said:

“That form I saw in my meditation was full of opulence and is the truth. Because of that I am confused. I’m sure that Your form now and the form I saw in my meditation are one and the same.”

Whatever You are, or whoever You are, I offer
You my respectful, humble obeisances.”

Due to His causeless mercy, Lord Chaitanya, as a reward for his service, bestowed love of God upon
the astrologer.
