

THE DOZING JUDGE

Once there was a judge who was overseeing a case.

The prosecution was speaking, and the defense was putting forth his argument.

Let me read the papers first and then do the necessary things

The prosecution and defense were having their own arguments and proofs to present their cases

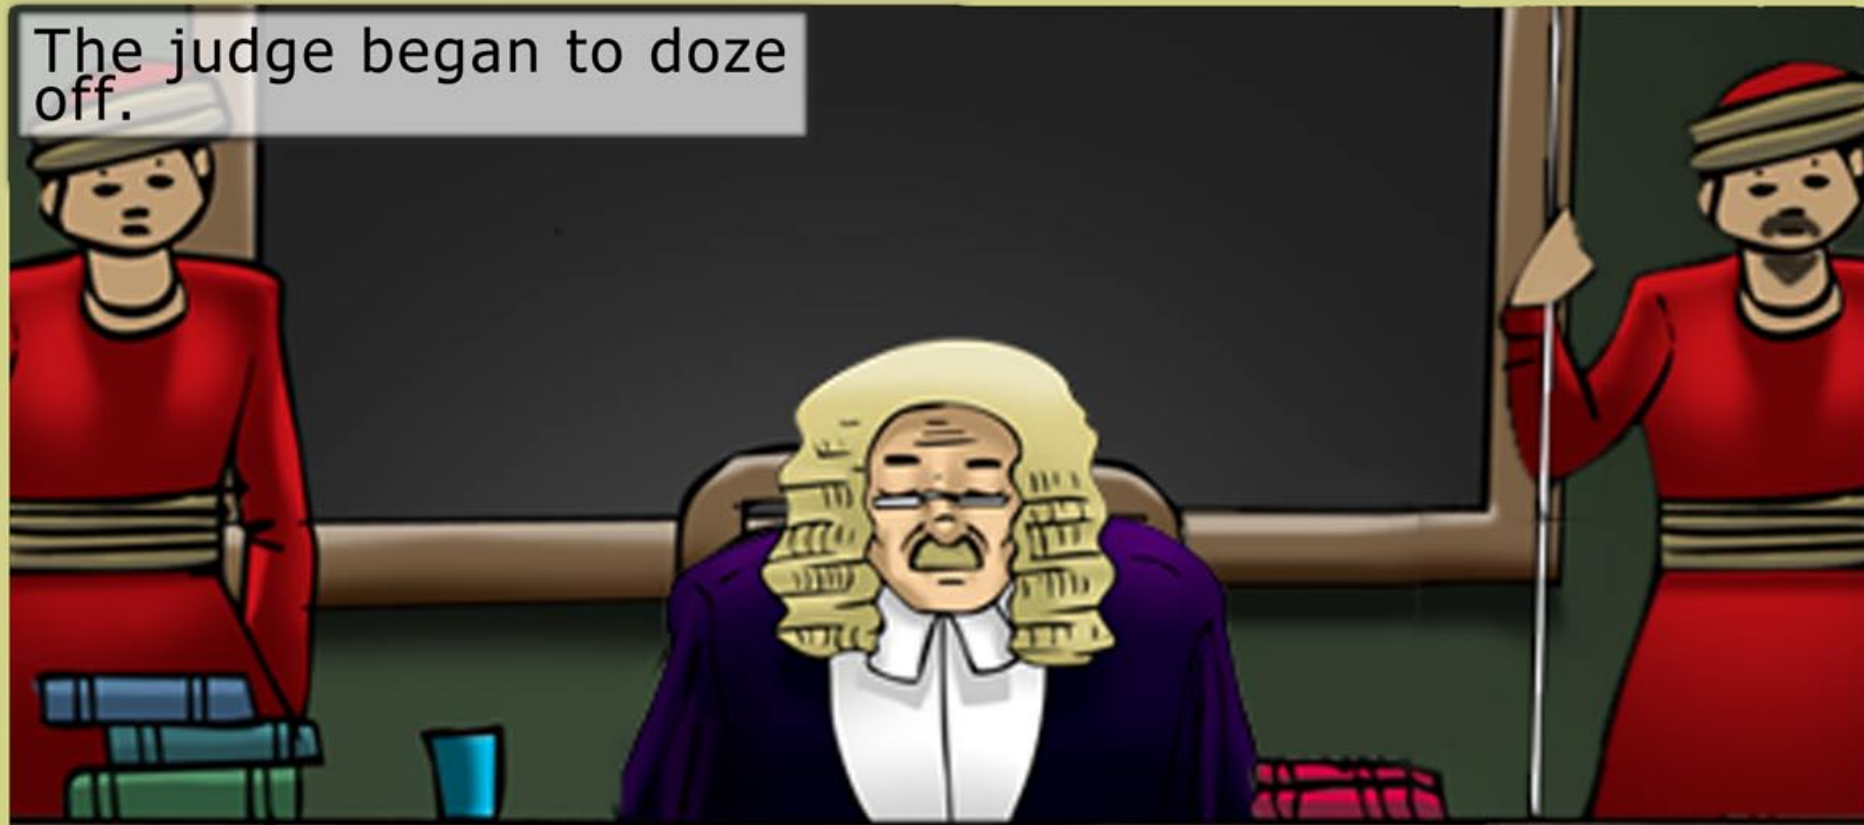

I object this your honor!

My Lord according to my case this is not like what it was presented

The judge began to doze off.

Your honor,
you're dozing off,
you're not being attentive to the case.

Decision is already been made so why to pay attention to their talks.

And he went back to sleep.

MORAL :

He'd already made his decision. The defense and prosecution could say what they want, but as far as he was concerned, the case was already decided. Yamaraja has already decided what will happen when you die or take birth. No one can manipulate your karma.
